U.S. Unveils Swivel Jets

Engines Swing in New VTO; Plane Industry 'Revolution'

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The Bell Aircraft Corp. today unveiled a jet-powered vertical takeoff and landing aircraft which its executive feels could revolutionize military aviation as well as some forms of the air transport industry.

Obsolete?

Bell Aircraft Corporation's new horizontal takeoff plane might easily outdate Convair's famous pogo craft, seen above, which takes off vertically from its tail and then levels off after becoming airborne.

Lawrence D. Bell, president of the company, called the plane "the most significant single development in aircraft flight since the Wright brothers' first airplane."

This is in contrast to the recently-developed Convair "pogo plane" which mounts wheels on its tail, rises vertically and straightens out for level flight. The new Bell VTO rises horizontally and the engines are swung over for level flight when proper altitude is reached.

The plane is powered by two jet engines mounted on an axle at each side of the body. The engines can be turned from a vertical position for takeoffs and landings to a horizontal position for level flight.

In addition, the craft is equipped with a compressed air system that ejects air streams at the wing tips and tail, thus giving the pilot control of the plane during landings and takeoffs. Bell engineers say that as far they know this is the first practical application of such "reaction controls."

During level flight, standard aircraft controls are used.

HAS NO WHEELS

The plane, successfully flown more than 20 times by Bell test pilots, is a queer-looking contraption but an obvious top-wing monoplane. It has no wheels—it doesn't need them. It has a glider body with an open cockpit, is 21 feet long and has a wing span of 26 feet.

The obvious military value is that such a plane can operate in the field without runways like a helicopter. But unlike a helicopter, its speed is not limited to less than 200 miles an hour.

USSR Increases Arms Budget 12%

Consumer Goods Program Junked In Favor of Industrial Products

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia today ordered a 12 per cent boost in her arms budget and publicly announced the scrapping of the short-lived consumer goods program in favor of more heavy industrial production.

1. Finance Minister Arseni G. Zverev told the opening session of the Supreme Soviet that Russia will spend 112,110,000,000 rubles (nominally $28,250,000,000) for arms this year. That's an 11,800,000,000 ruble (nominally $2,950,000,000) jump over the arms budget for 1954.

2. Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev officially ordered an end to the post-Stalin effort to produce consumer goods in greater quantity and declared that production of heavy goods is the source of Soviet strength.

(Diplomatic sources in London and Washington speculated that the Russian economic turnabout and the new emphasis on arms production may be Russia's answer to the Western European Union and the west's program for rearming West Germany.)

Margaret Tour Damp But Cheery

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UP)—Raindrops fell on Princess Margaret today as she took a state drive around the capital in an open car. She was cheered by thousands of damp but loyal Trinidadians.

But the onlookers complained that the car was going too fast and they hadn't had time for a good look at the Princess.

For the occasion, she wore a pink silk dress printed in a grey and white design with a moulded waistline and full flare skirt. She wore a grey straw hat trimmed with a pink rose. Her shoes and handbag were both gunmetal grey.

At a noon reception, the Princess met more than 120 newsmen at a press conference arranged at her own request.

A state banquet is scheduled at Government House tonight.

PREMIER BRINGS BUDGET DOWN IN HOUSE FRIDAY

Friday is budget day in British Columbia.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, as minister of finance, will present to the legislature his government's spending plans for the next 12-month period.

The budget will disclose the new school finance formula, which will affect every property owner in the province. No tax changes are anticipated.

Tax-Lost Home Blamed on Bonner

Attorney-General Accused of Delay In Issuing Fiat for Court Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner was accused here today of delaying action which would have saved a Westview, B.C. woman from losing her $3,000 home in a tax sale.

Graham Ladner, representing Mrs. Mary Booth, said the attorney-general had a month in which to take action but he moved a day too late.

Mr. Ladner said he had made application Aug. 18 to Mr. Bonner for a fiat to sue the provincial government. The period in which a fiat could be approved expired Sept. 16, 1954.

"He had it for a month," Mr. Ladner said. "Then, on Sept. 17 --one day too late—he brought the matter before the Lieutenant-Governor and said no action could be taken because the time limit had expired.

"This seems to me to be something worse than a plain omission on his part."

RENOVATED HOME

Mrs. Booth had spent more than $1,600 renovating her home without knowing it had been sold to a Powell River real estate operator for $30.60 after she had failed to pay a $16.83 school tax.

Tony Gargrave, CCF member for Mackenzie, brought the story to light in the Legislature Tuesday when he charged proper methods had not been made to reach Mrs. Booth to notify her of the impending sale.

"It's very hard," Mrs. Booth said Wednesday. "I had planned to go back there to live in my old age. I'm 66 now.

"I still owe a part of the money I borrowed to fix up the house. I guess I was doing it for someone else."

Demands Right To Brand U.S. As 'Aggressor'

LONDON (UP)—Red China refused today to send a representative to a United Nations security council debate on a New Zealand plan for a Formosan cease-fire.

It warned that "all decisions" taken by the council without a Red China representative present "would be illegal and null and void."

The Communist reply to UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold's invitation to attend the debate was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

It said Communist China "fully supports" the Soviet Union's proposal branding the United States an aggressor against China but is "firmly opposed" to the New Zealand proposal.

The reply said that Red China could send a representative to discuss the Russian proposal alone but would do so only when the Nationalist Chinese delegate on the UN security council has been "driven out."

Calls for Complete U.S. Withdrawal

The soviet proposal also would demand withdrawal of all American and Chinese nationalist forces from Formosa and other Nationalist-held off-shore islands. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and other non-Communist spokesmen have described the Soviet resolution as a demand for "complete surrender."

The reply said that Red China is of the "firm opinion that the United Nations security council should condemn the United States for its acts of aggression against China and call upon the United States to stop immediately its aggressions against China and intervention in China's internal affairs and to withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan (Formosa) and the Taiwan Straits."

The message said that "the United States aggression against China's territory of Taiwan has all along been the source of tension in the Far East."

It attacked the New Zealand proposal which called for consideration of the "hostilities in the area of certain islands off the coast of the mainland of China."

The New Zealand proposal, it said, "obviously is to intervene in China's internal affairs and to cover up the acts of aggression by the United States against China, and is therefore in direct violation of the fundamental principles of the United Nations charter."

'Intolerable Slanders' Charged

The message berated the United Nations for its failure to take up Red charges of aggression against the United States and said that the U.N. "repeatedly slandered the Peoples Republic of China."

"What is especially intolerable," the message said, "is the fact that the Peoples Republic of China, representing the 600,000,000 Chinese people, is up to now still deprived of its legitimate position and rights in the United Nations, while representatives of a small handful of remnants of the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique, repudiated long ago by the Chinese Peoples Republic, continue to usurp the position of representing China in the United Nations."

Nehru Spotlights New Peace Drive

(Compiled from UP Dispatches)

The United States today contacted India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru for details of his "side-street" efforts to find a way—outside the United Nations—to end the Formosan shooting.

U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich talked for 30 minutes with the Indian prime minister at the "Millionaires Row" residence where two days ago Nehru conferred with Red China's charge d'affaires in Britain.

High Indians said the two discussed the Formosan crisis. Non-committal U.S. sources insisted the meeting was "only a courtesy call."

But the conviction was growing in United Nations at New York that the best hope for a Formosan settlement now rests with Nehru's plan for "Geneva-type" conference of principals.

And there was no doubt the United States was vitally interested in Nehru's moves.

Washington diplomats are convinced that Russia is seriously worried by the dangers of war erupting in the Far East. They believe that the Soviets might be willing to enter into some stop-gap formula — short of a formal cease-fire—to ease the tension in the Formosan Strait and permit tempers to cool.

These factors might create a favorable atmosphere for Nehru's mediation efforts.

Reds Mass in Defiance of U.S. 7th Fleet

The emphasis was on speed, for the Communists were reported to have massed "many" ships near Yikiangshan Island in apparent defiance of the U.S. 7th Fleet which is committed to cover the Nationalist evacuation of the Tachens, barely eight miles away.

Nationalist sources said Chiang planes flew through increasingly heavy anti-aircraft fire to attack the Red ships. Two Communist ships were reported destroyed.

There were increasing signs the evacuation of Tachen was imminent.

Informed sources in Taipei said the United States and Nationalist China had reached agreement on evacuation of the Tachens under cover of the U.S. 7th Fleet and that an announcement could be expected within 48 hours.

HUTCHISON FROM WASHINGTON

Eisenhower Escapes From Political Mess

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WASHINGTON—During the last year the political prospects, the power and the mind of President Eisenhower have been completely changed by one of the great success stories of our times. Only his character has not changed and that remains as the basis of his unique place in American life.

A year ago, when this reporter was last in Washington, the President faced an agonizing dilemma and, it almost seemed, a disastrous failure as a national and international leader.

In international affairs he had not yet escaped the innocent enchantment of a foreign policy certain to fail and already causing grave strains in the free world alliance — the policy, in brief, of "liberating" Communist satellities, rolling back the Iron Curtain, "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek and generally repealing the "containment" policy of the Truman government.

Hutchison

If he had privately realized that the election cries of 1952 were irrelevant and dangerous, but had yet to abandon them, he found himself suddenly dragged into a totally unforseen French defeat in Indo-China. The world of a year ago seemed to be rolling inexorably toward a great Asiatic war, perhaps a world war.

In domestic affairs the president had lurched by a long series of blunders and by the worst kind of professional advice into the nauseous McCarthy mess.

He did not dare to repudiate a man who obviously was not striking mainly at American communists but at the American presidency. Tight-lipped and apparently helpless, he watched the Republican Party use McCarthy as its leading platform personality, even as its Lincoln birthday orator, with a speech called "Twenty Years of (Democratic) Treason." McCarthy, in fact, was taking the Republican Party away from its leader.

It was true to say a year ago that, at the current momentum, the tide in the affairs of the president was carrying him inexorably toward shallows and miseries which he could never hope to escape.

PMs Talk Convertibility

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth prime ministers turned today from international affairs to a review of economic and trade matters as their conference swung into its fourth day.

Prime Minister St. Laurent briefly reviewed Canada's position. The chief speakers were R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, and Peter Thorneycroft, president of the board of trade.

Informants said Butler's report would deal with the prospect of liberalizing trade. They expected him to examine the problem of making the pound sterling convertible into other currencies without setting any timetable.

ON BRINK OF DEFEAT

Mendes-France Loses Support of Mayer

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government was in grave danger tonight.

Not Resigning

CCF national leader M. J. Coldwell said today he has "no intention of resigning" because of a party split on German rearmament in last week's vote in Commons

Radical Socialist Rene Mayer told Mendes-France, a fellow party member, that he would vote against him in the present debate on the premier's North African policy.

Mayer's decision probably means the crumbling of Mendes-France's majority in the Nationalist Assembly and the downfall of his government.

Mayer spoke to a hushed assembly at the start of the second day of debate on North Africa. He was applauded frequently by what appeared to be more than half of the approximately 350 deputies present.

Mayer, in the dramatic conclusion of his hour-long speech, addressed the premier directly and said: "In the past you have often asked for a renewal of confidence. In this case I cannot renew mine."

PREMIER TO REPLY

After the critics exhausted their ammunition, Mendes-France was to take the floor with his defense.

The premier was expected to call for a confidence vote sometime before midnight, requiring him to resign if he loses. Under French legislative procedure calling for the lapse of a full calendar day before the ballot, the vote should come early Saturday.

The government was accused on Wednesday both of going too far and not going far enough in offering greater self-government to the North Africans.

Several Communist deputies charged the government had done too little. But other speakers, chiefly from the extreme right, insisted that the trouble in Algeria had been fomented only after the government showed weakness in France's protectorate of Tunisia.

CBC Strike Plans Stolen, Recovered

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today plans for emergency operation of CBC radio and television stations in the event of a technicians' strike have been recovered after being stolen from the Toronto hotel room of Norman Olding, a CBC official from Lachine ,Que.

Results of the balloting in 19 centres were telegraphed to the union's Montreal headquarters but were not revealed.

Witness in Trial Of Reds Subpoenaed

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed ex-Communist Harvey Matusow—apparently to explain his repudiation of testimony he gave as a prosecution witness at the trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders on conspiracy charges.

Famous Golden Goose Letters Were Not Marked Confidential

The "goose that laid the golden egg" controversy grew more complicated today when Premier Bennett made public two letters involved in the issue.

The letters, one from timber baron H. R. MacMillan, and the other from the assistant publisher of the Vancouver Sun, were written to the premier after B.C. newspapers carried reports that Mr. MacMillan charged the Social Credit government with "killing the goose that laid the golden egg" through high taxes on the forest industry.

Wednesday, Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson demanded the letters be tabled in the House to determine whether they were marked private and confidential.

ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION

The Vancouver Sun, in a news story, said the letter written by Sam Cromie was a "personal and confidential letter," sent to the premier to explain how the descriptive phrase by a staff writer was wrongly attributed to Mr. MacMillan in the CP wire service report.

Premier Bennett showed members of the Press Gallery both letters today. They were not marked private and confidential.

Premier Bennett was asked what the status was of a letter sent to him, and whether any letter could be made public. "I am dealing with these two letters," he said.

The controversy already existed in the press about certain matters. I felt they were public property because of the controversy, and so felt free to release them," he said.

He said: "I am not dealing with the status of any other letters coming to me," and that he used the letters, which were read in the Legislature last Friday by Lands Minister R. E. Sommers, to counteract "the erroneous impression that went abroad."

ONE PARAGRAPH

The premier added that he was only dealing with one paragraph of the "goose" reports, the one in which Mr. MacMillan was quoted as saying the provincial government was killing the forestry goose with high taxes.

Mr. MacMillan's annual report specifically mentioned four provincial taxes levied by the Social Credit government as being an added burden on the timber industry, and said the forest industry was more heavily taxed in B.C. than in any other province.

Premier Bennett would not comment on the apparent reversal of Mr. MacMillan's stand in his letter to the premier. In that letter, he said federal, not provincial, taxation was to blame.

A forest management license application by a MacMillan firm is now before the government, and opposition MLA's have made veiled charges that the premier put "pressure" on the timber baron to write the letter.

"This letter was unsolicited, and came as a complete surprise," the premier said. He said he hadn't talked with Mr. MacMillan.

Effen our Lydia keeps talkin' they'll hev to charge amusement tax down at the buildings.

Ottawa Awaits Reply From B.C. A-G on Narcotics Problem

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

The federal government suggested Dec. 3 last that the William Head quarantine station on Vancouver Island might be used by British Columbia as a treatment centre for drug addicts.

In a return tabled in the Commons Wednesday for Elmore Philpott (L-Vancouver South) and health department also said it agreed Nov. 30 to the request of Attorney-General Bonner of B.C. that a conference on the narcotics problem be arranged among the federal, B.C., Ontario and Quebec governments.

However, there had been no further communication from Mr. Bonner, either on the date and site for a conference or on the suggestion concerning a treatment centre for addicts in B.C.

The health department also informed Mr. Bonner it would be willing to share the cost with the B.C. government for any alterations that might be necessary to convert the quarantine station into a drug treatment centre.

Fear was expressed in the Senate Wednesday that Canadians are consuming large quantities of liquor containing drugs.

Senator Ralph B. Horner (PC, Saskatchewan) said "our liquors should be examined more closely for drugs. We are sometimes inclined to think because they come to us bottled and sealed that they are free of any contamination."

The government was urged Wednesday in the Senate to name Queen Mother Elizabeth as Canada's next governor-general.

Senator Ralph B. Horner PC, Saskatchewan) said such an appointment would be acceptable to practically all Canadians. They would like to see the Queen Mother as her daughter's representative in the largest country in the Commonwealth.

No Change in Navy Liquor Rules

Canadian navy regulations on shipboard consumption of liquor likely will remain unchanged despite the recent case of methyl alcohol poisoning aboard HMCS Magnificent at Halifax, Defense Minister Campney indicated Wednesday.

He said that the regulations, in force for generations, were reviewed a few years ago by the naval board, which decided they should not be changed. Further review now was not considered necessary.

Mr. Campney replied to questions by John Diefenbaker (PC, Prince Albert) about the poisoning of 47 sailors aboard the aircraft carrier who drank a brew containing methyl alcohol. An official board of inquiry is investigating.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that instead of punishing the sailors involved the department should consider equalizing liquor regulations as between ratings and officers.

Federal Officials Not Entertained

The government said Wednesday it knows of no federal officials, including cabinet ministers, having been entertained by a contract-seeking construction company at a palatial resort, believed in Quebec's Laurentian Hills.

Revenue Minister McCann also said in reply to a question placed on the order paper by Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) that no federal contracts with the unnamed company are being considered at present.

On Jan. 24 the government said no federal contracts had been awarded the company since it purchased the retreat, described in newspaper reports as a "Hollywood set designer's dream." Dr. McCann said Wednesday that the company purchased the resort May 13, 1952.

The CCF made a bid to have the Commons set aside regular business Wednesday to discuss the tense Formosa situation. But it was rejected by speaker Rene Beaudoin after Health Minister Martin said a debate would not help matters.

CCF leader Coldwell said there are indications of a change in government policy on the Chinese problem. He asked the House to suspend its throne speech debate to discuss the Formosa question.

Surplus butter in storage at Jan. 1 cost the government $42,156,000, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Wednesday.

The government buys these products under a price support program.

The Commons Wednesday defeated a CCF non-confidence motion in the government and then heard a new one from the Social Credit group.

The vote against the CCF motion was 204 to 23.

George Hahn, New Westminster, moved the Socred non-confidence motion. It said the government has "failed to take or to recommend the necessary fundamental economic and financial measures to place Canadian products and workers on a sound and prosperous basis, and to insure our economy against recurring recessions."

Anomaly in Insurance For Jobless May Go

Unemployment insurance for persons injured while awaiting benefits to take effect may be provided in proposed changes to the unemployment insurance act, Dr. F. T. Fairey, Victoria MP, said in a letter to Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

The council had requested action on the "anomaly" in the act stating persons must go through a five-day waiting period before they are eligible to get benefits.

But in another place the act states that a person injured during this period may not receive benefits.

Dr. Fairey will be approached further on the matter, council decided.

Gibson Roars 'Fraud' At Government Side On Forest Licenses

Premier Restrained By Speaker As Liberal Member Sparks Uproar

Bunt, outspoken Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson threw the B.C. Legislature into an uproar Wednesday with a charge that government handling of forest management licenses is fraudulent.

Gibson roared the charge across the House at Premier Bennett, who had to be warned to hold his seat by Speaker of the House Thomas Irwin.

The Lillooet member made a blistering attack on the Social Credit government's forest policies, and said men in the industry will soon be made to "wash their feet" before they go before the minister to "beg for timber."

"I'm saying the way you are handling it (forest management system) is fradulent," shouted Gibson. "This is only good for one per cent of the people, and what are you going to do with the other 90 per cent?"

Patronage Charge

He mentioned a charge of patronage hurled at the government by Russ Boyd, president of the Independent Loggers' Association, November 25.

Mr. Gibson said small loggers are being forced out of business, and that a few giant firms are gaining control of B.C. timberlands.

"And never forget, the man who controls the timber controls B.C.," he said.

He warned the government to "watch very closely" the actions of Celgar Development Co. He said the firm brought 15 small operators in the Arrow Lakes area to Victoria by private car in 1952, and interviewed them at a time in a hotel bedroom, to ask "what consideration they would require not to oppose granting of a license to that company."

Mr. Gibson said the small loggers were offered a purchase price for their holdings, and started liquidation, but that the deal was never carried through.

In the Clayquot public working circle on Vancouver Island, he said, two young men "who gambled their life savings to get started," had been forced out by a forest management license.

"When they went to the forestry department to protest, they were told to make a deal with the company . . . to become just contractors," said Mr. Gibson.

"I am going to offer you some constructive criticism, Mr. Minister," he said. "Auction the timber, with stumpage based on a percentage of the Vancouver log price.

"Put some backbone and self-respect back in the logging business," he thundered. "That's one way you can do it, and you could do it tomorrow morning."

Waving a clipping, Mr. Gibson thundered: "I am glad there are some men who are not afraid to say what they feel. There he is, picture, and all, and he's proud of it.

"I am going to ask that this charge be investigated by the standing committee on forestry and fisheries," said Mr. Gibson. "I am going to ask that this whole thing be investigated."

Boyd, one of a group of upcoast loggers appealing against a government-approved management license, accused the government of accepting funds for the Social Credit party in issuing licenses.

Gibson said that if the government issues all the licenses it has applications for, "35 per cent of the timber cut in B.C. in the next few years will be under forest management licenses."

$100,000,000 Lost

He said "more than $100,000,000 has been made through the transfer of companies who owned forest management licenses.

"That means $100,000,000 you should have collected for the provinical treasury—it's lost," said Mr. Gibson. "That money was made, non-taxable, by granting of forest management licenses.

"That's $10 for every man, woman and child in this province, literally stolen out of their pockets." Mr. Gibson said a license can't be transferred, but "shares of that company can."

"Have you never made capital gains?" asked Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers.

"Ahh, for —— sake—have you never sold a house for more than you paid for it?" answered Gibson. "Sure I've made capital gains.

"I started out on the West Coast of the Island with a handjack and an ax, when timber was selling for 25 cents, and when we left it was worth $17.

Mr. Gibson, who sold out his large holdings several years ago, said: "I am trying to protect the little man, to give him the same chance I had."

Wise to Listen

"As long as I stay at something I've spent my life at, I think you would be wise to listen," he told the minister.

Mr. Gibson made reference to the letter read in the House Friday by Mr. Sommers, a letter sent to the premier by timber baron H. R. MacMillan.

He read the House a portion of a column written by the Times' publisher, Stuart Keate, concerning the letter, in which Mr. MacMillan denied he had criticized the Social Credit government's taxation policies.

"It is an awful shame when we have to have proof of this kind to see whether he (the premier) is still in the saddle," said Mr. Gibson.

"I want those letters tabled," he said. "Why does a man shift his stand—does a man do that unless he's been asked, or told to do it?

'Cloud of Fear'

"Especially when this comes up a week or two before a forest management license is to be issued to that same man . . ." said Mr. Gibson. "It is like the old torture days, of turning the thumbscrews," he said.

"A complete cloud of fear is lying all over this country," he said.

"Chief Justice Gordon Sloan never recommended forest management licenses," said the Liberal MLA. "He recommended public working circles, and written right into his report is a recommendation that a commission be set up to handle them.

"He said all appeals should go to an independent board, and that our resources should be kept out of politics," he said.

"When we have broken all the things he laid down, we should at least have the decency to stop issuing forest management licenses," while he is conducting the new commission.

Lands Minister Sommers kept interjecting "Did you ever make capital gains?" until Gibson pulled back from his microphone to hurl an invective.

"I wouldn't go back into the logging business today," he continued.

Mr. Gibson said 1,500 truck loggers, meeting in Vancouver recently, had wired Premier Bennett asking for assurance that no management licenses be issued until Chief Justice Sloan completes his latest report.

"Up to last night, they had no answer," he charged. "What right has the Premier to ignore them? He is afraid to make that committment, there must be pressure on him."

Premier Bennett said the truck loggers had his answer before they sent the wire, through statements he made appearing in the press.

He also ripped into the government's plans to have logging firms build access roads to the west coast of Vancouver Island as a condition of management licenses.

"The cost of these roads is deductible from stumpage, and they are paid for by the taxpayers before they are even built," said Mr. Gibson. "Don't kid the people that logging companies are going to build them."

In the House

Cracks in the Dome Let in Fresh Air

By TONY DICKASON
(Standing in for Art Stott)

AT LAST it has come out on the floor of the House — long-awaited, by opposition members at least, that believers in the theories of Social Credit are cracked.

Authority Wednesday was no less than Victoria's own Socred statesman, or maybe stateswoman, Mrs. Lydia Arsens. And she's just proud as any cabineteer with the situation.

"A crack in the dome lets in sunshine and fresh air," she said, as one who takes no back seat when it comes to things pertaining to health. "I'd rather be cracked, and understand what our government means."

Loud and sustained applause resulted from the opposition and a slight squirming on the government side of the House.

Mrs. Arsens is nobody's fool. She just has a proclivity for making statements of a highly controversial and human nature. Such as "people today are going mental because of the present financial system." This was taken by observers to be either (1) a further indication of Socred policy based on the theory that the true believer is cracked, or, (2) that the cry for monetary reform sounds as strongly in her breast as ever before. In all justice we must say we believe it is the latter.

Mackenzie King Gathered Into Fold

Leaders in the past were cracked, she went on, and often turned out later to be truly great men. The late Prime Minister King was a Socred, she said—to the utter open-mouthed amazement of the Liberal phalanx in the House — but just didn't have the "strength of character" to face up to it. Mad desk-thumping by government members followed this tidbit of completely new political history.

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) started off with a gallant compliment to the Victoria member in the black dress. When he starts talking, he beams like sunshine over apple-red cheeks, but as he progresses takes on the appearance of a small hot explosion!

He was critical of all sorts of things, both political and non-political — including horses and cattle on highways. Deer, he admitted, one could not do much about, but indicated he thought the government should take the horses and cattle and give them a sound dressing down for stumbling into motorists.

Mr. Nimsick claimed that no one ran into horses and cattle deliberately. He got no argument on this.

The CCFer seems opposed to the military aspects of Legislature opening, and would rather see it done including "one or two" high school bands. There are two excellent school bands in his riding, he suggested, that would do famously for this purpose.

He bit into several subjects: roads, the amusement tax, education. He irked Premier Bennett by quoting from an interior newspaper on a matter of not too much importance. The premier set some sort of negative record when he said: "Misquote or not, I never said that statement."

When he was critical of equalization assessment, the premier snapped back brightly enough with "you tell me what you're going to do about it and I'll write it down."

Mr. Nimsick made a point when he said that accusations of patronage in the government couldn't all be shucked off as "misquote."

"Smear," said Mr. Bennett a couple of times, echoed by his stalwarts.

A Champion for the 'Little Man'

Lillooet's Liberal voice Gordon Gibson, who usually starts off with a mild roar and ends up like a howitzer barrage, ran true to sound. He's agin' granting of forestry management licenses, in case nobody in B.C. has yet heard this, and says so in terms so certain he can get the government apoplectic in jig time.

Mr. Gibson started in the woods at the age of 12, and today is worth but plenty. So he's all for the man who gets out there and wrests it from the soil, or in his case, the forest. Every young fellow should be able to do this, he said, but under forest management license the little fellow is squeezed out.

Forests Minister Robert Sommers, no mean speiler himself when it comes to cutting through the woods to the trees, broke in to ask: "Did you make a capital gain?"

Replied Mr. Gibson: "Have you ever sold a house . . . or have you ever owned a house? Just listen, I'm trying to help you."

He begged Mr. Bennett, in a voice ringing with charity, to take off the veils cloaking the forest management license policy. "I believe you are a fair man."

The Premier, who responds so quickly that it is unusual when the microphone can pick it up, said "any mistakes we make are in following the Liberal policy."

To this bluff Gordon Gibson breathed a gigantic "gee whiz" and looked patiently at the ceiling for a moment.

The Lillooet MLA, who banged mightly against the forest policy at the last session, in between, and at this assembly, said he enjoyed the legislature because nobody but Mr. Speaker could tell him to sit down. Or as he put it, "Gosh, I like to be on even ground."

With all the open talk on his part, and the lack of it on management licenses from the government, he drew a parallel. Front, main door of the legislative building is generally kept locked. "Open the FRONT door . . . it cost $100,000 to build . . . and it's used only once a year. It's a little childish."

Ernie Winch, CCF, Burnaby, who for many years has been the voice of the elderly, the downtrodden, the sick, poor, alcoholic, and almost any other group needing help, ran true to his excellent form. But he was "quite brief, for me."

But, like so many CCFers', he is chary of larger corporations. On the Kaiser dam deal he called the government "babes in the woods. If there ever was a slick outfit, it is Kaiser."

Mr. Winch, who is 76, said what could perhaps be his philosophy of life. He told members "one is never too old to do something you want to do."

The house banged approval on desks.

Bellam Lived Hour Jammed in Wreckage

Survivors Tell of Upcoast Plane Crash; Funeral Here Saturday for Saanich Flier

Saanich Flier Bill Bellam, 24, lived for an hour in the wreckage of a two-death plane crash on Moresby Island in the Queen Charlottes, Tuesday.

"He kept yelling he wanted to get out, but couldn't move," Ross Feltis, of Vancouver, one of five critically injured survivors, told British United Press today.

Bellam was jammed against the dashboard of his B.C. Air Lines Beaver float plane.

Also killed was Dragulin Jelicic, a logger recently arrived in Canada.

Bellam's parents reside at 665 Baker Street, and a sister, Mrs. Leslie Richards, at 3781 Saanich Road. His wife, the former Melvina Laura Leask, of Victoria, lives at Alliford Bay. They were married here six months ago.

FUNERAL HERE

Funeral will be in Sands' Mortuary here. Rev. Norman A. Lowe will conduct the 1 p.m. rites. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Feltis and the other survivors —Peter Moskowec, and Tom Ball, aVncouver; Roland Tremblay, New Westminster, and Bill Clark, North Burnaby—were flown to Vancouver in an RCAF Dakota Wednesday afternoon.

RCMP escorted five ambulances in a dramatic dash from Sea Island airport to General Hospital. Traffic on and under Marpole Bridge was halted for the ambulance convoy.

A "terrific gust of wind" while aircraft was negotiating a pass in the hills was blamed by survivor Tom Bell for the crash.

"LIKE A DREAM"

"It happened in seconds. We were going down and it was like a dream you expect to wake up from. But it wasn't a dream."

Ball said he "woke up outside the plane . . . sitting on a wing that was ripped from the fuselage."

Ball said some of the others were pinned inside the plane, and others were lying on some old slash.

"Somebody was groaning and it was raining hard. We were all soaked and cold. I never thought I would live I was so wet and cold."

Five hours later a rescue party reached the crash scene.

MORTAR AMMO BANNED AFTER SOLDIER KILLED

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., (BUP)—A premature explosion which killed one Camp Borden soldier and injured eight has brought a temporary ban on 81 millimeter mortar ammunition in army camps across Canada.

The ban, announced today, will continue until the court of inquiry at Camp Borden has completed its investigation. Officials said an expert has been flown from Ottawa to assist the board.

Sergeant-Major Noel S. Woolfson was killed Wednesday in the second explosion in two months at the camp.

Legless Air Hero Meets B.C. Buddies

Doug Bader Spends Day in Vancouver Visiting Amputees; Dinner Guest Tonight

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Legless Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain toured the wards of Shaughnessy Hospital here Wednesday, visiting amputees.

And Group Captain Douglas Bader left an air of renewed hope with the wounded veterans lying in their beds.

Bader, now air adviser in London for a major oil company, is touring Canada to visit veterans, particularly amputees, to look over aviation generally and to visit some of his old flying buddies.

He commanded 242 Squadron, the only Canadian squadron with the RAF, as of June, 1949.

In B.C. he is interested in the operations of Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., biggest helicopter company on the continent.

This morning he was scheduled to make a patrol flight in one of their craft, along the oil pipeline.

At a private dinner tonight, he will talk over old times with a dozen members of his former squadron. Also present will be Lieut.-Col. Cecil Merritt, VC, and R. E. J. Wood, who were in a German prison camp with Bader.

GREAT RECORD

Bader shot down 22 German aircraft before he was taken prisoner by the Germans.

Wednesday, Bader met Jim Wilkie, a man whose unusual presence of mind years ago, made it possible for him to meet the RAF's legless ace.

Jim bailed out of a fighter plane while crossing the Gulf of Georgia in 1944. As he was drifting down towards the sea he was horrified to see he had amputated his leg while getting away from the plane.

As faintness dazed him, he fashioned a tourniquet out of a strip of elastic from his parachute and managed to knot it around his amputated leg.

Ten minutes after he had landed in the sea, he was picked up by a fishboat.

MP's Wife Indicted

MONTREAL (BUP) — The trial of Mrs. Lillian M. Pursey, wife of a British member of Parliament for East Hull, who is charged with possessing counterfeit money, Wednesday was set for March 4. sing counterfeit money, today was set for March 4.

FIVE SICK WITH GAS

Three-Block Drive Sick Man's Nightmare

BIRTLE, Man. (CP)—A nightmare trailer ride in search of help after five persons were partially overcome by gas escaping from a snuffed-out stove burner was described today by a minister from Nipawin, Sask., one of the group affected.

Rev. Charles Bates, 52, superintendent of the Bethel Haven Rest Home for the Aged at Nipawin, said he parked the trailer here about 2 a.m. Wednesday. Also in the trailer were his wife, Esther, 42; his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Bates, and another son, Garth, 12.

Three hours after they retired, Mr. Bates said he awoke so ill he could not move his arms or legs. He heard his son groan:

"I'm sick, Daddy, I'm sick."

"Then I knew it was gas," said Mr. Bates. He crawled to the door, followed by his son, and started the car.

DROVE THREE BLOCKS

Trailer and car zig-zagged crazily three blocks through the darkened town of Birtle to the Birtle Hotel.

"How I ever drove that car, I'll never know," said Mr. Bates today.

When they reached the hotel, his wife gained consciousness and her husband helped her out of the trailer. She crawled on hands and knees through the snow to the hotel steps. The temperature was 10 degrees.

The proprietor heard her cries for help and called a doctor.

Sydney Bates, awakened by the movement of the trailer, fell on his face as he attempted to leave the trailer. His wife managed to walk out alone.

All five were taken to hospital. Garth and the younger Mr. Bates were released today. The others are in good condition.

They were en route to Texas for a holiday.

Cracked Ship Turns Back In Mid-Ocean

HALIFAX (CP)—The Panamanian freighter Liberator, her deck cracked from No. 3 hold to her cargo line, turned around in mid-Atlantic today and headed slowly back to the United Kingdom.

RCAF search and rescue here said it intercepted a message at 4.50 a.m. saying the 7,176-ton Liberator had turned around and was making way under her own power at 6½ knots.

The freighter, which sent out an SOS Wednesday as she wallowed in heaving swells, said she no longer required assistance.

The Liberator was 1,150 miles east of Newfoundland at the time and apparently her master decided it would be better to turn back than continue the voyage to Halifax.

ST. LAURENT ESCORTS QUEEN AT STATE DINNER

LONDON (CP)—To Prime Minister St. Laurent fell the honor Wednesday night of escorting the Queen into the state dining room at a royal reception for the Commonwealth premiers.

The Queen, wearing a white lace gown and diamond tiara, took the Canadian leader's arm as they walked to the 60-foot table set for about 40 guests. They were followed by his daughter, Mrs. Mathieu Samson, on the arm of the Duke of Edinburgh.

In the centre of the table stood a 25-inch Commonwealth vase, presented to the Queen by British potters to mark her coronation. The vase bears the Commonwealth coat of arms in 50 colors.

Fewer Jobless On Vancouver Roll

VANCOUVER (CP)—Horace Leech, manager of the National Employment Service office here, said Wednesday the city's unemployment peak has passed for this winter. There were 31,485 persons out of work Jan. 20, but the figure dropped to 31,272 by Jan. 27. The Jan. 20 figure was 1,329 less than a year ago.

The People's Money

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S new plan for the passage of the national budget is disappointing and defective.

After years of refusal, the Government decided recently to submit some of the annual estimates of expenditure to the study of a parliamentary committee, the system long followed in Britain. It was indicated that if this partial experiment succeeded the entire budget would be treated in the same fashion. But when Mr. Harris, the minister of finance, revealed the lines of this committee investigation he seriously restricted them.

In the past all the estimates have been submitted to the whole House of Commons, which cannot possibly give them adequate consideration.

The first purpose of a committee on estimates is to assure time for long and detailed investigation, in the informal atmosphere of a committee room.

The second purpose is, or should be, to bring the legislators into direct contact with the officials who actually prepare the estimates and spend the money—officials who must know far more about these details than any minister.

It is this second purpose which Mr. Harris has forestalled by his resolution, soon to be submitted to Parliament. He does not intend to allow the various departmental officials to appear before the committee for cross-questioning.

If this restricted arrangement holds, the new system will be very little better than the old. For as they have found in Britain, legislators cannot get to the bottom of the budget, cannot trace the money from a vote in Parliament to its final expenditure, unless they can talk freely with the men who actually spend it.

Mr. Harris no doubt is afraid that a committee would involve officials in a discussion of government policy which is certainly none of their business. The Government alone is responsible for policy. It must decide whether any sum of money should be expended, with Parliament's consent. Parliament has no right to ask any civil servant to discuss the policy of his minister.

Why should Mr. Harris fear that a committee would transgress this well-established line, which is one of the basic safeguards of the British system of government? He must know that any official, asked to comment on the wisdom of government policy, would simply refuse to answer and could not be drawn into any such discussion.

Moreover, no parliamentary committee would ever press him to do so—especially when all committees contain a majority of government supporters.

In Britain they have found no difficulty on that score. Why should we expect it here?

If Mr. Harris persists in this narrow approach the hopes raised by his original proposal will be completely frustrated. If he is wise he will agree to widen his motion and allow the officials to be questioned on matters of detail concerning which the Government should never refuse the fullest information to Parliament.

Turning Point in Transportation

IN ITS LATEST LETTER TO THE Victoria Chamber of Commerce the Canadian Pacific Railway holds out little hope of a faster and cheaper ferry service between this city and the mainland.

The company says it is losing money. It sees, for the present at least, no promise of increased revenue to justify the purchase of new types of ships or to increase the frequency of crossings.

Mr. N. R. Crump, vice-president of the company, is explicit on that point:

"When the Joan and the Elizabeth (present night boats) become due for a retirement, a few years hence, consideration will be given, in the light of conditions then prevailing, to the route and type of vessel best suited for servicing the southern area of Vancouver Island, but until that eventuates I can hold out no prospect of this company embarking on further large capital expenditures in the way of new ships which the traffic in sight could not possibly justify."

Mr. Crump has placed the company's position squarely before the Chamber of Commerce and this community in general.

That position should convince Victoria that the capital has come to a turning point in its history.

If Victoria waits until the CPR again reviews its position in the light of future developments, the traffic route between Vancouver and Nanaimo will be so completely established any hope of changing it will be remote.

This community, in other words, has to act now if it wishes to ensure its position as the important commercial point of the Island. It is justified in expecting to assert that pre-eminence on the grounds of population alone. Within a relatively short radius of Victoria live more than half the inhabitants of Vancouver Island.

That population surely represents a business potential attractive to transportation interests. If it does not appeal to the CPR—which admittedly has made a very substantial contribution to Victoria over the years—it should still have an attraction for others in the field.

Victoria should be shopping now for an alternative transportation system. The Chamber of Commerce has already indicated its intention to invite competitive lines into the area for fast, short trips between the Swartz Bay region and a point near Vancouver.

That route, it is believed, would be competitive in distance and travel time to the Nanaimo-Vancouver run. It would offer opportunities for considerable traffic in truck freight and general freight as well as passengers.

But in recent years Victoria City Council appears to have been coasting. It has produced no action to keep abreast of transportation requirements. It has advanced no plan to offset the drift of business to Nanaimo. Recently it has seemed more inclined to glance over its shoulder at the past than to look to the future.

Clearly the community can afford that luxury of retrospect no longer. Victoria has to bestir itself if it wants to avoid becoming what one Chamber of Commerce member calls a "dead-end city."

Indians and the Liquor Vote

TODAY IN CERTAIN PARTS OF British Columbia residents are marking ballots to decide what type of liquor outlets they want.

This is a continuation of the procedure followed here some time ago when Victorians endorsed public houses, cocktail lounges and licensed dining rooms.

There is nothing unusual in the fact that other provincial centres are voting today. But there is something unusual in some of the centres designated for the vote.

Prince Rupert's Liberal member Bruce Brown pointed to the anomaly in his speech this week. Four of the centres, he said, are on Indian reserves.

In those locations, opinion is sought on residents' preference for beer parlors, cocktail lounges and licensed dining rooms. The Indians might just as well vote for rocket trips to the moon. No matter what happens, they will not have beer parlors, cocktail lounges or licensed dining rooms on their reserves. They may have no liquor there at all.

The incident would be merely funny if it were not for one fact. It serves to underscore once again the discrimination practiced against a section of the British Columbia community in the matter of liquor. The Indian, in that respect at least, is still a second-class citizen. He has the vote, provincially. Presumably he may exercise it on a drinks-by-the-glass ballot. But what he says on that score goes for nothing at all.

Blessed Are the Pure in Heart

THE COACH OF THE MONTreal Canadiens has suggested that half a dozen National Hockey League stars be sent to Europe to bolster the Canadian team competing for the world hockey championship now held by Russia.

The proposal has roused amateur leaders who are apparently offended by the thought that top-notch professionals should be used. Their position might be entirely valid if "amateur" in hockey today means what "amateur" used to mean in many other sports in the past and still does in track and field and swimming.

Who is to represent Canada in the world games? Why the Penticton V's, of course. And who plays for the Penticton V's? One moment please, while we consult our roster of old National Hockey League players and those who have played professional hockey in other associations.

Dark Tunnel, Small Light

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT WOULD be a mistake for the United States not to take very seriously the difficulties and the dangers which have been raised up in the Formosa area. We are living in anxious days. There is a danger of hostilities of which no one could see the end, once they had begun. And there is danger that we may find ourselves in a very difficult position among our allies and among the uncommitted nations of Asia and elsewhere. Our case has not been well worked out and stated and we are not invulnerable. Let no one suppose that another blistering statement by Sen. Knowland or by an admiral can do anything but magnify the danger and compound the difficulties of our position.

Lippmann

On the face of it the position taken publicly by the parties to the great dispute are irreconcilable. Is there then, the responsible statesmen are asking themselves, any light at the end of the tunnel? There may be some light. It is a dim light and distant. But perhaps with the fate of man at stake, there may be enough reason left in the high places to keep that light burning.

ONE RAY OF LIGHT

The light is this. The conflict of positions, irreconciliable as it is, is just one stage off being as bad as it could be. Nobody has delivered an ultimatum and nobody is committed to taking any military action beyond what he is now doing. Neither side is compelled to take military actions now, next week, next month beyond the status quo. The only exception to this is the decision to evacuate the Tachens, and that is an action not to engage forces but to disengage them.

It must obviously be the business of every friend of peace to bring pressure to bear against any action to disturb the status quo. This is not a cease-fire, and certainly not even a beginning of any kind of settlement. It is, however, the necessary condition—as yet not precluded by the official statements of either side—for exchanges and for negotiation. This country will assume that the President has taken every precaution that can be taken to see to it that neither the Nationalist Chinese nor any of our units in the Far East disturb the status quo.

If eventually there are to be negotiations for a cease-fire, it is evident that they cannot deal with the ultimate issues. We cannot expect Peking to sign any kind of truce which implies the surrender of her claims to Formosa. Nor should we at this time confuse the juridical issues by recognizing in a formal treaty Chiang's claims to Formosa. The only sound and the only safe position is to treat the ultimate disposition of Formosa as a matter which cannot be settled now even by negotiations much less by force.

The world's best hope is to play for time, recognizing that a final settlement cannot be contemplated until the Chinese civil war comes to its final end. There are now two Chinas. But it is a great question whether we should treat that fact as the permanent historical nature of things. Neither China will accept the two-China view, and therefore we must in fact treat the two Chinas as provisional. Nobody knows what ten years will do to either or both of the Chinas.

What is certain is that the issue of the civil war connot now be decided by military force. The mainland Chinese cannot conquer Formosa. Chiang is unable, and the United States will not attempt, to conquer the Chinese mainland. Except for a few unimportant offshore islands, which are negotiable, there is a military deadlock in the Formosa Strait. Let us hope that it can be maintained.

Burma—Determined Hope

By JOSEPH ALSOP From Rangoon, Burma

FOR any citizen of the free world with a spark of human political sympathy, there is something wonderfully moving and pleasing about a visit to this small, determined, hopeful country.

Alsop

The enchantment is not on the surface of life, to be sure. Rangoon has not a trace of its old clean, stuffy prettiness, which this reporter remembers from the time he was here with Gen. Chennault, in the bad old imperialist days before Pearl Harbor. The city is still war scarred and street sweeping does not stir the same enthusiasm in Free Burma as in the former British Raj.

What is enchanting, rather, is the spirit. It is the gleam of grim pride in the eye of the tough young Burmese colonel reciting statistics to show that the Communists and other insurgents are now on the run. It is the simple pleasure of the man at the airline counter, explaining how Burma has built up her own efficient national airline.

YOUNG ENTHUSIASM

It is the intelligent enthusiasm of the able young official (in the Burmese government you are venerable at forty) who explains the government's brilliantly original, yet simple, practical and successful measures to bring a better life to the farmers in their rice fields.

And it is the sardonic delight of the cabinet officer who announces that the great Bombay Burmah company, starters of the third Burmese war, first grand exploiters of this country and stuffiest of all colonial enterprises, has at last decided that Free Burma merits renewed investment on the government's special joint plan for foreign capital.

These things, plus the quality of the Burmese government itself with its three remarkable leaders, U Nu, U Kyaw Nein and U Ba Swe, justify the most hopeful forecast. One of the wisest men in this city, a brilliant Indo-Burman physician, put the thing in a nutshell. "I really begin to believe," he said, "that we have a great future here in Burma if the rest of the world will just let us alone."

OTHER WORRIES

His "if," his careful proviso, sums up the potential tragedy of Burma, and indeed of the free world. It also implies something very important to Americans—that there are other things to worry about in Asia besides the future of Formosa.

In the long run the greatest danger in Asia is the politicaly chain reaction that has started in Indo-China. It is spreading, at this moment, to South Viet Nam. If it is not halted at the border, Cambodia and Laos will come next. Then Thailand will fall. And after the fall of Thailand, the rest of South Asia will be instantly involved.

Despite Chou En-lai's smooth professions to the Burmese government, the Communists have already prepared their instruments of pressure for future use here. They have their "autonomous federations" to stir up the Kachin and Thai peoples on the frontiers; their "progressive" front organizations the Chinese are financing in Rangoon; and of course their remaining insurgents. These things do not matter much now. But let Thailand fall. Let the Communists stand on three-quarters of Burma's borders. Let all the timid and the doubtful be swayed by enormous new Communist triumphs.

WARNING

And then the situation will arise of which Burma's U Nu has already warned India's Jawaharlal Nehru. According to authentic report, U Nu has frankly told Nehru that the fall of Thailand will render Burma's position "untenable," even if there is no armed aggression to fear.

To make this potential tragedy still more tragic, there is the further fact that neither the Asian nor the Western leaders are really doing much to avert it. Both India's and Burma's future are immediately at stake. Yet the Indians and Burmese are reluctant to commit themselves, by throwing their whole political and moral weight into the effort to halt the chain reaction where it can best be halted, in Laos and Cambodia.

Meanwhile, the American leaders are utterly preoccupied with Formosa, which evokes the reverse of enthusiasm here. And by the same token, the American leaders appear to be utterly forgetful of the vast and pressing danger of a complete upset of the world balance of power by the loss of South Asia.

All of which calls to mind what mad old Mossadegh said when a high American offical warned him the Communists were trying to take over Persia. "Too bad, too bad," he cried, giggling the while. "Too bad for us and too bad for you!"

SUFFERING

One of the curious effects produced in me by noise is the inability to take the most obvious steps to put myself out of its range. I feel it to be such an outrage that noise should be permanent in my neighborhood when I am working, that I simply refuse to retire.

Feb. 3, 1895—A dispatch says the barkentine Wrestler, which went ashore near Victoria about two years ago, has been purchased by Kennedy and Ingals of San Francisco, and they will ask Congress to adopt a bill to readmit her under the U.S. flag. Victorians owned her.

CRISES AND CHRISTIANITY

With reference to rearming Germany, the rearmament of Japan, the creation of super-destructive weapons so terrible we can only guess at their possible effect on earth life, the dangerous Formosa situation, the invasion of Chinese territory and adjacent waters by the American 7th fleet, the resort to "preventive" war as our only means of maintaining peace, all of this proves our boasted "Christianity," our religions, our claim to the development of "spiritual faculties," our ideas of high intelligence and of being the superior race to have been mere fog and not really worth a single dime.

MATTER OF RECORD

Your editorial in the Times of January 29 states, quote "Such discussions should be constructive and far removed from the tone of (library) board arguments which brought discredit on the city in 1954."

The above quotation is a cowardly one hidden behind the "skirts" of what the editors of certain editorials without signature consider Freedom of the Press. Just what do you mean?

DR. GIOVANDO AND THE PARTY

The opening of the Legislature finds Dr. Giovando, M.L.A. for Nanaimo-The Islands, sitting as an Independent.

According to the newspapers, Dr. Giovando explained his new position. He stated: "He wasn't elected to take part in internal strife of any political party, but to serve the people of his district."

Most people in politics are identified with one party or another. They take part in the activities of the party for various reasons but mainly because they subscribe to the principles of the party to which they belong. They also have the advantage of party organization and party funds to assist in their election. This does not conflict in any way with their services to their constituents. Dr. Giovando's position in this respect was the same as members of other parties.

At no time during the period of his association with the Conservative Party was Dr. Giovando personally involved in strife of any kind. He chose to remain apart from internal problems of management of party affairs. In this connection no one in the party had any fault to find.

The recent publicity attached to the Conservative Party activities, as carried in the press, is merely a reflection of an inner struggle to restore lustre to the principles of Conservatism and, at the same time, place the organization on a sounder basis. The purpose behind this is to provide the public with a political party that can carry on the operation of party government, thus preserving and strengthening our democratic way of life.

We have served the people of Canada in the Legislatures and in the House of Commons since Confederation. There have been times when we have had substantial majorities and times when we had no representation at all in the Legislatures.

It is the desire of the Conservative Party to do those things which will enable it to serve again while being faithful to its political principles.

Dr. Giovando might have seen fit to continue with the party that elected him in the last election through its troublous period. His support would have been welcomed. On the other hand, he has chosen to classify himself as an Independent. With this the party has no quarrel with him but wishes him success. He will not, however, he better able to serve his constituents than he was prior to his decision to be Independent.

RODNEY BEAVEN.

Secretary, British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association.

EYE ON THE HOUSE

It is interesting to observe how individuals retire behind their faces, and just now, the faces in the Provincial Government benches resemble individual suns.

Today is their day, with of coure an occasional inconvenient spotlight thrown upon them by the opposition. It is our day too, with the chance of free criticism, of recorded opinion, of serious observation in terms of the welfare of this province, for it is necessary to know one's country with the heart as well as the head—looking towards its future—saving it for the next generation.

After a time, events of the moment become divested of their actual sensations, and suddenly we find we have lost the chance to protest. The time is to now become concerned with immediacies that are taking place in the Legislature—it is not enough to criticize after the event!

From Venice to Mr. Filion

Dear Mr. Filion:

This is in reference to your article published in The Times on Jan. 22, of this year. True, it is cleverly written, but it left me confused and rather resentful.

The Victoria Daily Times which captioned your article "WRITER SAYS OUR CARS MOVE LIKE HEARSES, PEOPLE LIKE PALLBEARERS", undoubtedly felt more than a slight resentment.

You may well claim that as a visitor to this Island, I have not the right to voice an opinion, but Victoria has given so much of herself to me, so generously opened her arms and revealed her beauty that perhaps you will not feel it presumptuous if I claim that you as a writer may have done it a grave injustice—and yourself and the world—for your pen is a mighty weapon; your thoughts are written, your words are widely read and your opinion seems to hold much weight.

When you referred to the cars as hearses, no doubt, you meant the traffic. The thought occurs to me that if more cars moved like hearses, there would be far less need for hearses. However, on the smooth winding Victorian roads, they cannot move too slowly, for there is much to see. There, Mr. Filion, you will find youth and beauty in abundance. Instead of "hearses" you will see motion and growth that may leave your senses reeling.

You will find it all around you. The miracle of birth itself will beckon to you. Even from the seemingly endless stretches of forest that line the roads, you will see the baby trees that stand erect and perfect beneath the protection of their Mothers' luxuriant branches. The myriad of green and growing life is everywhere.

Were you actually here, Mr. Filion? Here in this green winterland where nature has painted the landscape with velvet moss instead of snow? It hangs like icicles from the trees, it carpets the earth, it turns a tree stump into a cushioned seat. Did you walk only through the traffic, Mr. Filion, or did you stop in the hidden glade where the salmon spawn? Did you step on the pebbled shore and drink of the fresh running water? Did you breathe into your Montreal lungs the cool, untainted Victoria air?

Mr. Filion, did you take time to notice the number of modern homes being constructed? The pride the residents take in maintaining their homes and their gardens? The originality of the young "pallbearers"—many of whom build not only their home, but the furniture itself?

May I ask if you spoke with any of the many young people who make their homes here? They are loyal to this Island they love and they are most hospitable. They are happy and proud to show their home and the treasures of their Island. Perhaps, they walk more slowly than in Montreal, but they walk as neighbors. They are friends and they take time to say "Hello". If you let them, they would gladly take you into their world. They are industrious and they are home loving, but for you they will stop their work to show you an Indian costume, the variety of their Museum from a moose to a clam shell in their beautiful Parliament Buildings.

They may drive for miles to point out an old castle in Sooke or half-way up a mountain to share with you a view of their Island.

They are givers, Mr. Filion, and they are men of ideals and I thank them with all my heart for showing me Victoria.

(Mrs.) SYLVIA MILSTED.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Morning Visit

THIS isn't a bit the sort of column that I meant to write. But I was in the midst of a heavy piece full of quotes from Dr. Chisholm and Arnold Toynbee about how we must learn to join the human race, when a friend of mine dropped in.

Ruth

Now, about half an hour and six cups of tea later, I'm just considering the subjects we talked about.

I don't think either of us managed to finish a sentence, but we had a most satisfying conversation. We talked, to begin with, about my friend's old aunts in England and how they send her a certain magazine every week, about the problem of the only child or the child who is much younger than its brothers and sisters, about the lunacy of modern child psychology, and how glad we'd been to see that old darling, Dr. Alvarez, come out with a bit of what sounded to us like good plain common-sense.

* * *

But that was just a starter.

From there, we progressed without a pause to the amount that teen-aged boys can eat, to a certain little dress that's been lengthened by inserting a band around the waist. After that, we got on to racial prejudice and education, and the friend who's just had her fourth girl when she was longing for a boy. We mentioned Christmas thank-letters, and a recipe for bread, and the manure my friend thinks best for a certain kind of shrub.

We talked about husbands and the garden and how we felt about gardening boots clomping round the house.

And my friend had seen a lovely little shrub. Down by the Museum, she said. If I drove along Government and stopped by the Museum, I couldn't miss it, she told me. Little yellow blooms and the scent of primroses, she said, and I must get out of the car and go right up and smell it.

* * *

The middle-aged spread, we mourned, jumping from shrubs to waistlines in a single breath. Of course, we should do exercises, but what with the house, and the cooking, and the shopping, and running over to see elderly parents, and being back when kids returned from schools, and settling household bills, and visiting sick friends in hospital, there just didn't seem to be time for exercises.

And men who talked about organization and idle middle-aged women, quite simply didn't have a clue.

They'd be dead in no time, we decided, if they had to do half the jobs the average wife-and-mother takes in her stride. So limited, poor chaps, so one-track mind, we said with the amused, benevolent tolerance of middle-age.

* * *

In was, in fact, a very pleasant conversation, the kind of conversation between middle-aged women that might have happened in Rome, or Paris, Berlin, or Moscow. It's the kind of conversation that women have in little villages in Africa, and in Japan, and in almost any place you can think of.

Because differences of color, class and creed don't really alter housewives and their conversation.

Basically, we're all interested in the same sort of things.

* * *

So don't tell me that humanity alters just because it lives on the other side of an artificial line drawn upon the map. Traditions may be different, but the housewifely types are just the same.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

To Paris With Love

LONDON—I dropped in to see the preview of the new Alec Guinness film, "To Paris With Love."

There's a certain excitement about going to see a new Guinness movie since by now it is pretty safe to expect outstanding comedy from him. Also I hoped I would meet him again at the screening. I've only met him once. It was during the intermission at a variety show at the Palladium. Nothing was said but we stood side by side for almost a full minute. No doubt about it, London's the place where you rub shoulders with the great.

Reyburn

However, Guinness was not on hand to chat with the press in the lobby of the cinema after the screening of "To Paris With Love." It was just as well. I for one would have been at a loss to find something good to say about the picture. In "Kind Hearts and Coronets," "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "The Man in the White Suit," Guinness has gone from strength to strength. But in this new one he's muscle-bound. Some parts of it are so bad as to be embarrassing.

* * *

The laboriously slow-moving plot tells of father Guinness taking his son to Paris to learn some of the feminine facts of life. But father gets involved with the young girl he picked out for junior and the son gets tied up with the older woman he had earmarked for dad. At the end they unravel themselves.

You keep waiting for the film to get funny but it trundles on in the grand tradition of English screen comedies in the days before "Doctor in the House." With that film, one felt English film comedies had taken a new lease of life and from then on they'd all be as slick and as fast-moving as that classic. But no. "To Paris With Love" is only funny twice—when Guinness gets his suspenders caught in a hotel door and when he walks into a badminton net.

There's a Canadian in it. Fellow named Vernon Gray. He plays the son as though there's an eclipse on. I met him. He is from the West. This is his first film. Anything he does after this will be a comeback.

However . . . this was a sneak preview. It was slipped in with the regular showing of "The Bridges of Toko-ri" at the Leicester Square Odeon and we press people were given a block of seats at the back. But while the critics were muttering to themselves "What a stinker," the cash customers who were getting the film as a bonus were roaring their heads off and thoroughly enjoying it. Maybe we're jaded.

WHAT MAKES NEWS? According to Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, this item, reprinted in its entirety, makes news: "PRINCESS — Princess Margaret, in London to try on dresses for her Caribbean tour, went to see 'Aladdin on Ice' at the Empire Pool, Wembley. With her were Mr. Peter Ward, Miss Judy Montagu, and Mr. Billy Wallace. The Princess saw a dancer with a bare midriff and exclaimed, 'Oh, isn't he cold?'" End of story.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

CITY'S WEATHER RECORD

Sunshine, 1955	60.1 hours
Last year	65.4 hours
Precip. to date	2.01 inches
Last year	7.49 inches

SYNOPSIS—A high pressure area that has been building over the southern coast for the last two days now has moved far enough inland so that more moist Pacific air is beginning to enter the western part of the province. The resulting general cloudiness on the coast will yield a few showers today and Friday and a Pacific disturbance nearing the weather ship today should bring somewhat more rain to the northern coast by Friday morning. Lesser amounts of cloud will penetrate the interior of the province so that considerable sunshine will be present particularly in the southern part. A few light snow flurries are expected in the northern interior today and Friday. Temperatures will be generally unchanged.

Esquimalt United Elects Church Elders

Arthur Cuthbert and Robert Irwin were elected to the session at the annual congregational meeting of Esquimalt United Church recently.

Elected to the committee of stewards were: Arthur Bowker, Sven Jensen, Don McLeod, Frank Morgan, George Connors, Dr. Willard Smith and James Bryant.

Thomas Dixon, Jack Evans and Anne Watson were elected to the Christian education committee.

At the annual meeting of the church choir Dr. Gordon Clay was elected choir president.

Others elected were: Norman Redfern, vice-president; Pat Clay, secretary-treasurer; Shirley Posie, robe monitor; and Dorothy White and Wanda Grey, librarians.

Two Mothers Jailed For Robbery Attempt

LONDON (Reuters) — Two young mothers were sent to prison here for slugging a storekeeper with a heavy door handle in an attempt to rob his store. Mrs. Phyllis Brett, 24, was jailed for 30 months, and Mrs. Ethel Cooper, 19, for 24 months. Each has two children.

CC Group Named To Seek Marine Park Locations

A committee to select likely sites for marine parks was named by the harbor and transportation group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

The committee, comprising J. Ronald Grant (chairman), Tom Denny, Stanley Moore and James Genge, will study the marine park policy of neighboring Washington.

Mr. Denny reported that the U.S. state has created a number of mooring places on Puget Sound where the holiday wanderer may tie up his craft and enjoy the adjacent countryside.

"The parks are as much for people in rowboats and canoes as those with larger boats," Mr. Denny said.

He felt the B.C. government's parks department would do well to consider a similar scheme in view of the large number of tourists now coming to this province in their own private craft.

Recommendations of the four-man committee, if accepted by the chamber, will likely be forwarded to the government.

Titled Victim Greets Blonde at Jail Gate

LONDON (UP) — A blonde divorcee Wednesday left the prison where she served four months for shooting Lord Vivian and ran straight into the arms of the waiting nobleman.

"We are completely devoted," Lord Vivian told reporters at his reunion with Mrs. Mavis Wheeler at a railroad yard.

"That is completely true," she added.

TO DISCUSS ACTION FEB. 15

Outside Workers Say City 'Giving Crumbs, Keeping Pieces'

City outside workers will meet Feb. 15 to decide action in the face of council refusal Wednesday to meet their demands for wage increases.

Union officials charged that city spokesman Cecil Wyatt was ". . . giving us crumbs and keeping the pieces." He agreed in principle to some fringe demands including protective clothing for certain jobs.

The 240 workers represented by Civic Employees' Protective Association (TLC) had asked an annual 4-cent-an-hour pay boost for a five-year period.

The men also asked service pay of 10c a day after five years' service and time off or pay for holidays falling on Saturday or Sunday.

Mr. Wyatt said, "It was agreed between the union and the city that both parties would abide by the arbitration award of Aug. 16, 1954 . . . there are no economic changes since that time . . . it does not seem there is justification for the request."

A two-week strike resulted last year when outside workers' demands were refused. It was settled by arbitration award of a 5-cent-an-hour increase.

New Irish Envoy Named for Canada

DUBLIN (BUP) — Ireland's ambassador to Spain, Leo Thomas McCauley, is to become ambassador to Canada, it was officially announced here Wednesday.

McCauley will succeed Sean Murphy, who is being transferred to another post.

Firms Show Higher Profit Despite Decline in Sales

NEW YORK (AP)—"Sales off—profits up." Some of the biggest U.S. corporations are reporting that today in their 1954 tally sheets.

Lower taxes often get the credit for making last year's net income look better than 1953's. But this year taxes are not likely to be lowered again.

And still, for many companies the outlook is for better profits in relation to volume of sales. The answer is greater productivity, which has been lowering the break-even point in some industries. It is the fruit of the billions of dollars which industries have poured into new plants and more efficient equipment since the war.

Much of the big stock market interest in steel shares can be traced to this. Steel sales have been rising, to be sure. But the thing that interests investors is that although production rates range between 80 and 85 per cent of capacity, the break-even point for steel companies has been lowered well below that in recent years. And steel corporation directors feel justified in raising dividends.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

Prices were irregular. Light offerings appeared in all commodities. Commercial demand was limited.

There was some buying of oats by the U.S. plus a few export orders although there were no reports of overseas business in any grain.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: U.K. 980,000 bushels, Germany 365,000, Japan 340,000, Belgium 195,000, Norway 120,000.

Wheat prices were unchanged.

Most grains eased although soybeans rallied from the early lows and pushed above the previous close.

Wheat was under mild selling pressure throughout the day on reports of snow in parts of Kansas and a forecast for heavy snow in the droughty western section of that state.

Wheat closed ⅞-1¼ lower, March 2.29⅞-⅜; corn ⅝-1⅛ lower, March 1.54-1.54⅛; oats ⅛-⅝ lower, March 78-77⅞; rye 1¼-2½ lower, March 1.25¼; and soybeans ½ lower to 1 cent higher, March 2.80⅝-⅞.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Selling Wave Hits Wall St.

NEW YORK (AP)—The market was hit by selling today with steels and oils falling in the late afternoon.

Two points represented the range of change in either direction, although some were well outside those lines.

Texas Gulf Producing lost about 2 points after directors proposed a three-for-one split and declared the usual quarterly dividend of 35 cents.

A. M. Byers jumped ahead about 6 points in the midst of a proxy fight over control of the company.

Canadian stocks were mixed. McIntyre advanced ¼. Distillers Seagram was up ⅛ and Canadian Pacific, Dome Mines and International Nickel fell ⅛.

TORONTO (CP)—The market faded in a narrow decline toward the close. Trading was light.

A few industrials countered the downtrend with gains ranging between $1 and $2. Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper climbed $1.12½ to $40.75, Canadian Vickers jumped $1.75 to $36.75.

Western oils were mixed with Banff and Britalta strong but Canadian Williston and Canso Oil Products eased. Base metals also showed no trend but Hudson Bay was ahead 87½ cents to $59.

Golds eased in all sections. Uraniums were also lower.

MONTREAL (CP) — Aluminium lost 1½ points and General Dynamics ⅞. Great Lakes was off ¾ and Gatineau ⅝. Down a fraction were Abitibi, Fraser, Howard Smith, Shawinigan, Noranda and McColl.

Canadian Vickers jumped 2¼ and Canada Cement a point.

Papers, utilities and senior metals were easier. Beverages and miscellaneous industrials were up.

Opemiska was up 35 cents and Virginia lost 40 cents in an irregularly higher mine section. Western oils were narrowly mixed. Scurry improved 25 cents and Calalta eased 10.

VANCOUVER—Sparmac sold 14,300 at 53. Mid-West Gas traded 4,400 at $1.99, up four. Giant Mascot moved 5,500 at 63, up six. North West Ventures sold 14,000 at 47. Western Potash sold 15,200, gaining two at 71. Inland Gas added five, selling 600 at $3.20.

LONDON (Reuters)—The market again featured widespread gains in industrials on continued investment buying.

Road-making shares recorded good gains following the government's road expansion plans. The heavy engineerings showed marked firm

UN Invites 84 Lands to Talk On Atoms For Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations secretary-general Wednesday sent out invitations to 84 countries to attend the international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy to convene at Geneva, Aug. 8.

At the same time, Dag Hammarskjold sent along copies of the conference agenda and rules of procedure, as established earlier by the seven-country conference advisory committee.

The 84 countries invited include the 60 UN members and 24 countries, not members of the UN but members of its specialized agencies. Red China, member of none of these bodies, was not invited.

FIVE REPRESENTATIVES

Each country will send five scientific representatives to present papers on the atoms-for-peace program initiated here by President Eisenhower in December, 1953. The UN General Assembly last fall unanimously approved the program.

More than 100 items listed for discussion cover a whole range of technical, theoretical, economic, educational and practical applications of power.

SEE CHEAP A-POWER

The agenda also stresses development of cheap atomic power by the year 2,000—before coal, wood, oil, or water-power fuels are severely diminished—and aid to countries lacking these conventional power sources.

WOULD BY-PASS DENTISTS

Dental Mechanics Backed by TLC

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night lent its strength to a fight by B.C. Dental Technicians' Society to take high profits and control of manufacture of dental plates away from dentists.

Aim of the society is to give the public good denture service at a cost of about one quarter of what dentists charge for equivalent or "inferior" service.

A bill authorizing the public to deal directly with technicians and thus eliminate high dentist fees will be presented to the B.C. legislature.

Victoria and Vancouver Trades and Labor Council will lead active support to the representation.

Vice-president of the technicians' society, Alf Buttress, a member of Vancouver local 511 International Chemical Workers, TLC-AFL, with which denture-makers are affiliated, addressed Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday.

Cost to a dentist of one upper plate is $25, Mr. Buttress said. Dentists sell these for $150 and upwards to $300, he went on, explaining that the technician who makes the teeth receives only a small portion for his labor.

His society, which wants to take the lead in altering the situation which he claimed prevails throughout Canada and U.S., feels the public is "not getting a break. We are firmly convinced we can give the public service, but at the same time we do not suggest that we should take over the work of dentists.

"Where dentures are concerned," he said, "we feel technicians can give a good job after the dentist has diagnosed the case and taken impressions."

The society also wants to set up a school for technicians in conjunction with the proposed new dentistry faculty at University of British Columbia and become bonded within the province.

Before presenting its bill, the society must make efforts to reinstate itself in the Dentistry Act, revision of which in 1950, Mr. Buttress said, inadvertently left technicians beyond its scope.

The spokesman was careful to point out that his group does not wish to eliminate the dentist entirely in manufacture of dentures, but only to obtain a fair deal for technicians.

Many today are not making enough in work with dentists to live on adequately and are forced to "bootleg" dental plates made in their basements, Mr. Buttress said.

Mr. Buttress charged that some dentists are making plates for social welfare cases from "inferior materials, which is hardly fair when technicians can give better quality work at a lower price."

Connolly Resigns From N.S. Cabinet

HALIFAX (CP)—Harold Joseph Connolly, health minister and one-time premier, resigned Wednesday from the Nova Scotia cabinet.

He will retain his Halifax seat in the legislature, temporarily at least.

Mr. Connolly will be replaced as minister of public health and public welfare by Geoffrey Stevens, 63, minister without portfolio and administrator of the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act.

BING LIKES HOSPITAL

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Crooner Bing Crosby, in "excellent" condition following surgery two weeks ago, appeared reluctant today to leave St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica.

Dr. F. C. Schlumberger, who performed the operation for removal of kidney stones, said the singer was "getting along wonderfully well" and will be sent home next week.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, February 3rd—Remember Shakespeare's advice? It went like this: "Neither a borrower nor a lender be; For loan oft loses both itself and friend." It's sound advice, but, then, he was talking about personal friends. Hubby and I don't jeopardize our friendships when we need money for some project we want to undertake... we borrow it at the BANK OF MONTREAL. If your proposition is sound, and your budget will allow easy repayment terms, the B of M will lend you money at only six per cent interest. Think of it, you pay only 27c interest a month on a $100 loan, and you have 12 months to pay it off. You can borrow money at the B of M for all sorts of useful purposes. For instance, if you need cash to build a basement playroom, fix up that spare bedroom or meet some unexpected expenses, your B of M manager will be glad to talk things over with you. You'll like his friendly approach to your financial problems.

Among The Prettiest Sights In The World—seems to me—are the gay groups of Canadian youngsters, in bright winter colors, thronging our streets just before nine. Always hope they've had a good breakfast—with something nourishing and hot—like BREX! When children start to school after a breakfast of Brex—I know they've enjoyed it! It's got a nut-like flavor that's good! Then—because of the extra Wheat Germ added to Brex—the whole-grain cereal—there's a valuable source of thiamine, iron and other valuable vitamins and minerals in every serving! Cooks in just three minutes, too! Do try it for yourself!

Two Gentlemen Of Distinction ...seems to me ...would win an award for popularity any time! I nominate Mr. Chase and Mr. Sanborn, the fabulous coffee men—creators of the delicious new INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE! What a boon to be able to serve 100% pure coffee—full-bodied, full-flavored—by adding boiling water to Instant Chase & Sanborn! Just taste the rich coffee essences that are so stimulating and pleasurable ... and you'll know that they come from top-flavor coffee beans. Best of it is—you can have your coffee mild, medium or strong—the way you like it! "That's grand coffee!" your family will say.

A Fairy Tale Child lives across the street. Her hair is spun-gold and shines in the sun like a buttercup. And her mother, too, has very pretty, lustrous hair. Wasn't surprised, the other day, to find that both these gleaming heads of hair are washed regularly with the famed WOODBURY COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO. I know that Woodbury is a natural oil shampoo. It washes hair gently and shining clean — but does not "dry" it by removing all the natural oils. So many families have discovered the natural oil protection which Woodbury gives, that you can buy this quality shampoo at much less than any other quality shampoo. Try it now!

Oh But It's Comforting! . . . Next time you—or one of your family—have a chest cold coming on, do get relief with MENTHOLATUM . . . Apply it liberally to throat, chest and back. Massage gently until the skin is glowing. Cover with a warm flannel cloth—and tuck yourself cosily under the blankets! Soon Mentholatum's soothing medication helps to loosen tightness, and ease soreness—and you get real relief! It's wonderful for children—and has been used for years in our family. Won't you send for a FREE GENEROUS SAMPLE of this long-famed product and see for yourself why it's so popular? Write Confidentially Yours, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal.

Bruins Bump Hawks

Consolidate Hold On Playoff Position

Boston 3, Chicago 2

(By The Canadian Press)

The National Hockey League race is fast developing into a four-team affair, with New York Rangers heading for a win-or-get-out showdown.

There never was much doubt about the top three spots in the league. Everybody figured they were cornered by Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

But the fourth spot was a tossup between Boston Bruins and New York Rangers. Chicago Black Hawks were just along for the ride.

The Bruins took a little stronger hold on the fourth and last playoff position Wednesday night with a 3-2 victory over the Hawks. It gave them 48 points, nine ahead of the Rangers and 19 up on Chicago. Rangers already are behind the eight ball. They have played 51 games, two more than Bruins, and will have to start moving.

SMALL CROWD

It was big Ed Sandford who scored the winning goal for the Bruins before only 3,180 Chicago customers. That was their 18th victory of the 1954-55 campaign. The other Boston goals were split between centre Cal Gardner and rightwinger Real Chevrefils. Bucky Hollingworth and Red Sullivan tallied for the Hawks, who suffered their 30th defeat of the season. Bruins grabbed a two-goal lead in the first period when Gardner and Chevrefils beat Chicago netminder Hank Bassen. But the Hawks came back to tie it up on goals by Hollingworth, in the second, and Sullivan, at 2.16 of the third, before Sandford broke loose.

It was the first defeat pinned on Bassen in six starts. He had to make 31 saves to 20 for Johnny Henderson in the Boston nets.

Two games are scheduled for tonight—the third-place Leafs against the league-leading Canadiens at Montreal and the Bruins against the second-place Wings at Detroit.

Top Bird-Bashers Show Tonight

The B.C. Badminton Championships shifted into high gear today with the arrival of a starry contingent of out-of-town competitors who occupy top spots in tournament seedings. Competition in the open events gets under way tonight at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club. Among the top singles stars will be Vancouverites Jean Bardsley and Dave McTaggart, both former provincial champs. (Times photo.)

Ranking Shuttle Stars Compete Here Tonight

The welcome mat will be rolled out tonight at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club for a flock of visitors who will probably filch all the silverware in the house.

Three days of shuttle warfare in the B.C. Badminton championships have been chalked up and now that the huge handicap entry has been pared to workable size, the starry open field goes to work tonight.

Names like Daryl Thompson, Jean Bardsley, Dave McTaggart, Lois Reid, Jean Waring and Don Davis will be mentioned in shuttle conversations around town. And lurking on the fringes will be the outsiders who will be trying to sneak into the elusive circle.

Thompson, a former Canadian champion and still a ranking favorite in all tournaments, will be gunning for the singles championship he lost in 1952 to McTaggart and will team with Mrs. Bardsley in the mixed doubles.

Victorians will get their first look at tiny Miss Waring who, at the age of 16, has five years of championship play behind her and owns the Canadian Junior championship, the Alberta Open title and the Saskatchewan crown. She will team up with local doubles star Eric Hibberson and will present a stiff threat to Thompson and Mrs. Bardsley in the mixed.

LIONS LISTENING?

.. Now if the '49ers Don't Sign Moegle ..

TAYLOR, Tex. (AP) — Dicky Moegle, Rice Institute's all-American halfback, said Tuesday he and San Francisco '49ers still are "very much apart" on contract terms.

Moegle had a second conference Tuesday with Red Strader, new '49er head coach, and Lou Spadia, business manager. Moegle was their No. 1 choice in last week's National Football League draft.

"They made me an offer but we can't seem to get together on a deal," Moegle said. "Their offer is still very much apart from the Canadians. I'm very interested in the '49ers, more so than in the Canadians, but we haven't reached an agreement. I'm not in any hurry. This isn't anything I'm going to rush into."

U.S. Team Beaten

LONDON (AP)—The United States amateur ice hockey team, en route to the world championship tournament in Germany, took a 6-2 beating Wednesday night from Harringay Racers of Britain's top hockey league. Most of the Harringay team are Canadians.

LOVE MATCH POSSIBLE FOR AUSSIE NETTERS

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—A love match featuring one of Australia's top tennis stars may be played on an overseas court this summer.

Pretty, 20-year-old Jennifer Staley, whose name has been linked romantically with Lewis Hoad, has been selected to play overseas in a four-woman Australian team.

And Hoad, runner-up for the Australian singles championship, is certain to play abroad later this year, with a good chance they will meet.

Continually in each other's company, they admit to being good friends but so far have denied an engagement.

Marcel Willing to Wait Until Favor Needed More

Barely Misses Shutout As Cougars Top Stamps

By BILL WALKER
Victoria 4, Calgary 1

If Victoria Cougars want to do goalie Marcel Pelletier a favor, they should heed Marcel's philosophy.

And by doing so they'll be doing themselves a favor.

The commiserations were being handed out to Marcel Wednesday night after the Cougars' 4-1 triumph over Calgary, because Marcel had lost his sixth shutout of the year after being seemingly home free in that regard.

But Marcel never batted a tear over George Pargeter's third period tally. He quickly replied:

"It no matter; we won and it was a big one."

He then added. "I'm saving it for Vancouver Saturday."

This wasn't a strange answer either. For the week previous in the club's 8-1 rout over Westminster, Marcel commented on the only goal that beat him that night:

"What does it matter, so long as we win."

But actually Pelletier deserved the blanking Wednesday. It was a moment of laxness that enabled Pargeter to get loose and backhand the puck home. And this after Pelletier had been particularly alert as the Cougars were building up their margin.

COUGARS LOSE ANDERSON

Victoria Cougars will be without the services of centre Doug Anderson for six to eight weeks, it was learned today.

Anderson was injured in Wednesday's game with Calgary Stampeders at Memorial Arena and was forced to leave the game. Examination by X-rays this morning revealed he was suffering from a cracked bone in his ankle.

Just the Same, 'Twas a Cougar Show

It was a rugged, sometimes sluggish contest, with the Cougars' passing the predominate feature. They held almost complete command and accorded Pelletier fine protection on the whole. The only sour note that could become serious is that Doug Anderson came out of the battle with a bad ankle sprain when boarded heavily by Gus Kyle.

The scoreless first frame saw Ed Dorohoy and Pete Durham miss the best of the many opportunities presented. But they were not to be denied later as the Cougars set the offensive plan.

Durham, incidentally, played the game with a banged up knee that looked like a badly decayed grapefruit. "It's only blood," said the club doctor as Durham fingered the spongy surface.

Dorohoy opened the scoring at 17.01 of the second period when he banged home a rebound off Doug Macauley's drive on a three-man play with Andy Hebenton.

A bit of spice was added when Alex Hucul and Mark Marquess took to bear hugging, but that only served to ease the pressure on the Stamps for a while, while the Cougars regrouped their forces.

A long clearing pass to Dorohoy by Durham set up the second counter early in the third frame, Dorohoy feeding Colin Kilburn a perfect lead pass with Kilburn picking the corner on goalie Doug Stevenson, who did much to keep the score within bounds until the final frame.

Hebenton Barges to the Fore

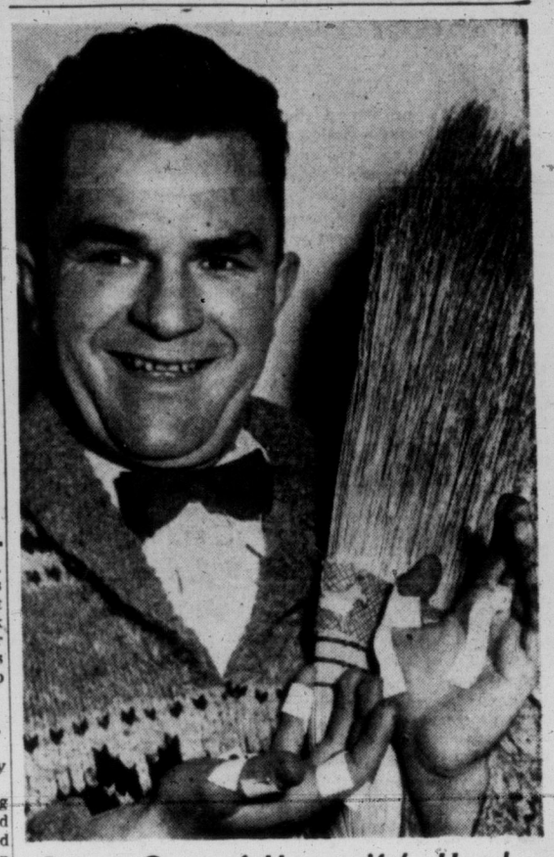
It was another feeder pass from Dorohoy, the play initiated by Durham, which produced the third Cougar counter.

Dorohoy hit Hebenton with the pass just over the blue line and the husky winger rapped home his 35th goal of the year, following the puck into the net. This ties him with Edmonton's Bronco Horvath for the league lead.

Then came Pargeter's tally, a backhand from close range to be followed by the fourth Cougar goal and one which put Durham within shouting distance of the league record. Durham took a goalmouth pass from Kilburn to connect for his 15th marker of the year. The league standard is 18 for defenseman.

The "big one" that Marcel spoke of can be explained by the simple fact that the Cougars now lead the fifth-place Vancouver Canucks by eight points. Now the best the Canucks can do before they hit town Saturday is to shave that edge to four in their two games, with Westminster tonight and Calgary Friday.

And Saturday is when Marcel, and the Cougars, could really do with a favor. Marcel, in particular, has one coming.



Severe Case of Housewife's Hands

Local curler Graham McCall now knows what his wife goes through, sweeping all the floors in the house every day. Vigorous ice-sweeping in four games in the Victoria Curling Club Bonspiel has left Graham's mitts bandaged and blistered. He has one consolation though. The Harry Croll rink, on which McCall throws lead rock, is undefeated in four straight games. (Times photo.)

Dorohoy Shares Third In WHL Scoring Race

Victoria Cougar's Eddie Dorohoy scored a goal and an assist in Wednesday night's victory over Calgary Stampeders and pulled himself into a tie for third-place in the bitter fight for the individual scoring championship of the Western Hockey League.

Edmonton Flyers' Bronco Horvath still holds the lead with 71 points, but he is being pursued by Calgary's Doc Couture, 64 points, and Dorohoy and New Westminster's Guyle Fielder, both former scoring champs holding third with 63 points.

Horvath and Cougars' Andy Hebenton share the lead in goals with 35 each and Fielder is tops in assists with 49.

BCABA RULING HITS ORPHANS

Howie May Lose Williamson, Hill

By DENNY BOYD

If trouble came in box cars, Howie Tooby would rank with the richest railroad magnates in the world.

Howie, coach of the Victoria Orphans, senior men's basketball team, rapidly is becoming old before his time because of the coming Vancouver Island playoff with Alberni Athletics.

Tooby and the Orphans hope to finance their end of the playoffs with the receipts from tonight's big Harlem Globetrotter Variety Show. The multi-act presentation, at the Central Junior High School auditorium, features veteran jazz pianist Earl "Fatha" Hines and his showcase orchestra.

That's the most immediate of Tooby's woes because advance ticket sales have not been up to expectations.

Part way through the season, Orphans' hopes were boosted considerably by the addition of Dave Williamson and Don Hill, both former members of the Alberni Athletics, who threw their lot in with Orphans.

However, Williamson and Hill are students at Normal School. Both were playing for the Normal School club and they found it necessary to leave the Orphans so their studies would not suffer.

They did so under the understanding that they would rejoin Tooby's club in time for the playoffs, at which time the steady grind would not be so severe.

However, recently, Tooby was advised by an official of the British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association that Hill and Williamson can play for Normal School or Orphans, but not for both. The ultimatum was prompted by the BCABA's opinion that the Normal School is an outlaw team and anyone who plays with or against them will also be classed as "outlaws."

Tooby's only hope in this regard lies with the Alberni club. He plans to contact Alberni manager Fred Bishop, ask his permission to use Hill and Williamson and then inform the BCABA if Bishop goes along with the idea.

But Bishop, in all fairness to him, is under no obligation whatsoever to make things easier for Orphans and, even if he does sanction the use of the two players, it still does not mean the BCABA will give its official blessing.

Without the two ex-Alberni boys, Tooby has himself and six players—Johnny Clark, George Denison, Gordy Jones, Gerry Parker, Ed Pederson and Don Hendry. Tooby may pick up Al Davies from the senior B league, if Davies is willing to return to the club he left earlier in the season.

Other troubles? Well, Orphans are having trouble paying the rent for practise halls and they have no games lined up until the first two games of the best-of-five playoffs, Feb. 18 and 19 in Alberni. (Third, fourth and fifth games go in Victoria the following week-end.)

KERMODE SIGNS

Just to make things completely unbearable, the Alberni club has signed up veteran Harry Kermode, who has given a succession of Victoria teams more trouble than any other Alberni player. Harry retires every year but always comes back near playoff time to make things rough for Victoria players.

The only pleasant aspect is that Tooby is not disposed to weeping. Otherwise he'd have a huge bill for wilted collars.

HYDE'S RINK RANKS WITH OLDEST; TEN RINKS UNBEATEN

Age No Barrier When Curlers Gather

By BILL WALKER

The winners get all the glory; the losers tell why. But you won't hear a complaint from Bill Hyde and his merry crew. They've lost more games than half the rinks put together in the Victoria Club bonspiel have played.

This must rank as one of the oldest if not the oldest quartets in the game.

J. Cockwell is the baby of the bunch at 70 years. He's come of age so to speak, the government please note.

C. Hawker is seven years Cockwell's senior while F. W. Fell goes Hawker a year better and, at the bonspiel dinner Wednesday, remarked: "All we need now is a beer to make it a real meal." This after his second piece of pie.

And then there's Bill Hyde. He'll be 85 in March. He sat at the head table Wednesday after being missed out last year when the honor roll was called.

Bill whacked up his arm a while ago but doesn't offer that as an excuse. "It's my eyes," he says. But the twinkle was still there when he spoke, just as it will be when he heads east for Regina and the Brier.

Overlooked in the visitors' book during the week was Gerry Cruickshanks of Seattle. He's skipping Paul Wells' rink.

Here's a fishing note too courtesy of Bucky Kennett, the former hoop referee, now a sporting goods' operator in Duncan. "The egg cluster gets 'em," he said of the steelhead run on the island. Bucky is curling for Gerry Koffski's rink from Nipawin.

BILL HYDE

It's true: the VCC has applied for the Brier. The asking year was '56; the answering note was maybe in '57 or '58; the decision will likely be made at his year's meeting of the Brier Tankard directors in Regina.

Meanwhile on the championship front, more favorites than Dick Topping and Art Gooder have been knocked out. Victoria's Eric Bullock was a double loser, bowing to Bill Osborne of Port Alberni and McTavish of Vancouver.

Entering today's full schedule of draws, only 10 rinks remained in the unbeaten class. They are Larry Marshall of Duncan, Harry Croll, Gordon Walkey, Frank Burden and Gordie Robertson (all 4-0); and Harold Keyes, Bill McDougall, Bill Dunstan, Cathro and Gutoski (3-0).

Nanaimo's Brock Wilson has a 4-1 record as have Cam Earle of Duncan and McTavish.

It is expected that all events will have reached the semifinal stage with the conclusion of Friday's draw leaving the semis and finals for Saturday play.

Tonight's draws will result from earlier matches today.

Guests at the banquet Wednesday were the Mayor and Reeve Wurtele of Esquimalt.

LADY WRESTLER WOULD CONTEST BILL IN RING

CHICAGO (BUP)—Ada Nash a lady wrestler who practices her holds on alligators, today offered to wrestle a state legislator who seeks to outlaw female grappling in Illinois.

"I'll show him that women are pound for pound as good as men wrestlers," she said, flexing her biceps.

Miss Nash referred to Rep. Louis Janczak (R-Chicago) who has introduced a bill to officially bar female wrestlers in the state.

She said she had read somewhere about "equality of the sexes in ancient Greece," and added it was "high time we got smart like the Greeks."

City Boxla Juniors To Step Up in Class

Victoria's junior lacrosse stars will go gunning for the Minto Cup next season.

Ousted from the B.C. junior playdowns last year, partly because of a lack of pre-playoff games, the juniors will attempt to rectify this shortage in 1955 by entering the Inter-city Junior Lacrosse League.

It was decided at the annual meeting of the Greater Victoria Lacrosse Association this week that an entry would be filed with the league on behalf of a junior all-star team.

The junior club's expenses would be covered by a 2 per cent cut taken from the gates of local inter-city senior games.

Should the juniors be denied a franchise in the inter-city loop, they will play in the city senior B league.

The meeting returned all but one of last year's officers. Doug Fletcher was returned as president and will handle the peewee, bantam and midget leagues; Tom Halbert again is vice-president; Jim Hetherington is second vice-president and will be in charge of juveniles; Eric Foster is third vice-president; Charlie Thomas, treasurer, and Tony Harrison, registrar.

Barbara Ann's Coach Tries With Jane Now

OTTAWA (CP)—Otto Gold, the man who trained Barbara Ann Scott, leaves this week for Europe with another pupil he hopes to see win the world figure skating championship.

Carole Jane Pachl of Montreal, 17-year-old Canadian women's senior champion, is his latest contender for international honors.

He said Monday in an interview he thinks she "will make a good showing."

"But we must wait and see," he said. "We'll have to take a look at the competition first."

The veteran Minto Club skating coach and his pretty protege will leave Montreal by air Friday for the world meet at Vienna, Feb. 14-18.

NOT AS DAINTY

Carole Jane faces unfamiliar outdoor skating conditions.

"We have to get used to the outdoor rink," Gold said. "The ice is artificial but there may be wind, snow or rain to contend with."

Gold, who has been coaching Carole Jane since early last summer, says that she is "a bit more of an athletic type" than Barbara Ann, who won the world title in 1947 at the age of 18, the Olympic championship in 1948 and is now star of an ice show.

"Barbara Ann was always a dainty skater," he said. "This girl has more power behind her jumps."

Carole Jane is about equally proficient at school figures and the showier free skating, her trainer said.

"But then a championship skater has to be. If they are weak in one field they are headed for trouble."

PUFFING WIN

Island Vets Too Sharp, That's All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Basketball greats of a former era returned to the courts to renew old rivalry Wednesday night and once again Vancouver Island came out on top.

The Island Old Timers, led by veterans Art Chapman, Porky Andrews and Hank Rowe, puffed and sweated their way to a 40-32 exhibition win over the Vancouver Old Timers.

The Vancouver squad, with Jim Bardsley, Ken Lawn, George McConnell and Hunk Henderson in the fold, held a 27-22 lead after three-quarters but ran out of gas in the final 10 minutes.

Andrews and Chapman, former professionals with the Vancouver Hornets, led all scorers with 12 and eight points respectively.

SOCCER'S GRAND OLD MAN

Life Begins At 40 for Stan

LONDON (BUP)—Britain's sports writers looked to the old adage "life begins at 40" and speculated today what the future holds for this country's "grand old man" of football.

Practically all were agreed that Stanley Matthews, with 23 years of football behind him, in all likelihood would still be displaying his brilliance five years from now.

Birthday messages from sports admirers great and small continued to pour in, wishing the soccer "wizard" many happy returns of the day.

Ferenc Puskas, captain of the Hungarian football team, wired: "We forward an affectionate greeting and hope for more success for you in sports."

Said Matthews: "It was wonderful to get this message from Hungary. But I'm sure I don't deserve it."

Sports writers in all the national papers published reminiscent stories on the world famous Blackpool and England international outside right.

One newspaper ran an article written by his school games master, Thomas Wainwright, who told how Matthews won his first trophy at the age of seven.

But his dazzling "snake-hips" play at soccer football even at that early age drew the attention of Wainwright and later trainers who encouraged him.

Blackpool captain Harry Johnstone wrote in another paper: "The wonders of Matthews' brilliance as a player and his superb physical fitness can be summed up in two words—will power."

After describing him as a "model player" who never resents criticism, Johnston added: "The way he is playing these days, it wouldn't surprise me if he was still playing at 45 or even older. . . . He is just Matthews—there isn't another like him."

Matthews' comment: "I still don't know what's so wonderful about a footballer still playing when he is 40. Now, if I had been 45 or 50—well, that would have been different."

It looks like he plans to show everybody just how different.

'Y' Swim Team Named For Inter-City Gala

Victoria YMCA swimming officials have picked a special team to enter the interclub swim meet with Ray Daughters' Washington Athletic Club Saturday night at the Crystal Garden.

The American squad will enter 17 swimmers, three of which will try for the U.S. Olympic Games team, in the 22 events. The program is divided into four groups: Boys and girls 14 years and under, and boys and girls 15 years and older.

YMCA coaches Archie McKinnon, Jack Todd, Joan McLagan and Bob Johnstone will enter 51 swimmers.

Dick Ellis, Bill Moffatt, Charlie Constable and Bill Hook will do clown diving and Rita Norbury's Y Aquanymphs will put on a display of rhythmic swimming.

Local swimmers are asked to report about 6.30 at the Crystal. The evening's events start at 7.

Victoria team follows:

Senior men—Dave Taylor, Roly Hawes, Bill Martin, Wally Watson, Keith Murray, Don Heywood, Jack Todd, Gerry Cuthbert, Garth Anderson, Peter Horne and Merlin Hawes.

GOLDEN BOY GETS FINED

LONDON (CP)—Wilf Mannion, English soccer's "golden boy" who twice quit football and twice came back, has been fined five guineas by the Football Association.

The 36-year-old inside forward, who now plays for Hull City, drew the penalty for breaking an FA rule that bans players from taking part in Britains football pools.

Mannion, during one of his "retirement" periods, had forecast match results in a Sunday newspaper. Technically, he could have been suspended permanently.

Allie Calls It Quits After 12 Major Years

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Allie Reynolds says he has pitched his last major league baseball game. The decision to retire after 12 years in the big time comes as a result of a back injury and his doctor's advice.

In eight years with New York Yankees, the big right-hander established himself as one of baseball's pitching greats. His lifetime record is 184 victories and 104 defeats. Reynolds, always the "money" hurler, won seven world series games for Yanks and dropped only two.

His doctor recently warned him against the possibility of further aggravating the injury and said major surgery might be required if his career continued. Thats' when the 37-year-old Reynolds decided he would quit. He announced his retirement Wednesday night.

Reynolds made the difficult decision reluctantly.

"Some may think you approach something like this with a detached attitude," commented Allie as he wrote off a career which saw him help Yankees to six world championships—five in succession.

"But when you get around to it the old, close ties are awfully hard to cut. From a standpoint of years I had lots of good pitching left; there's nothing wrong with the arm. I can throw as hard as ever.

"But you look at it a lot of different ways. I can't risk permanent injury at my age; I never had any intention of keeping on as anything less than a whole ballplayer and certainly I'd never do anything to hurt the Yankees' chances."

In Glendale, Calif., Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, didn't know that Reynolds was quitting. "If it's true I can only say that he'll be mighty hard to replace."

Stengel touched on Reynolds capacity as a workhorse. "Allie started ball games every four days and he could step in there and do a fine job of relief work, and as the TV fella says, 'you just don't get them no more'."

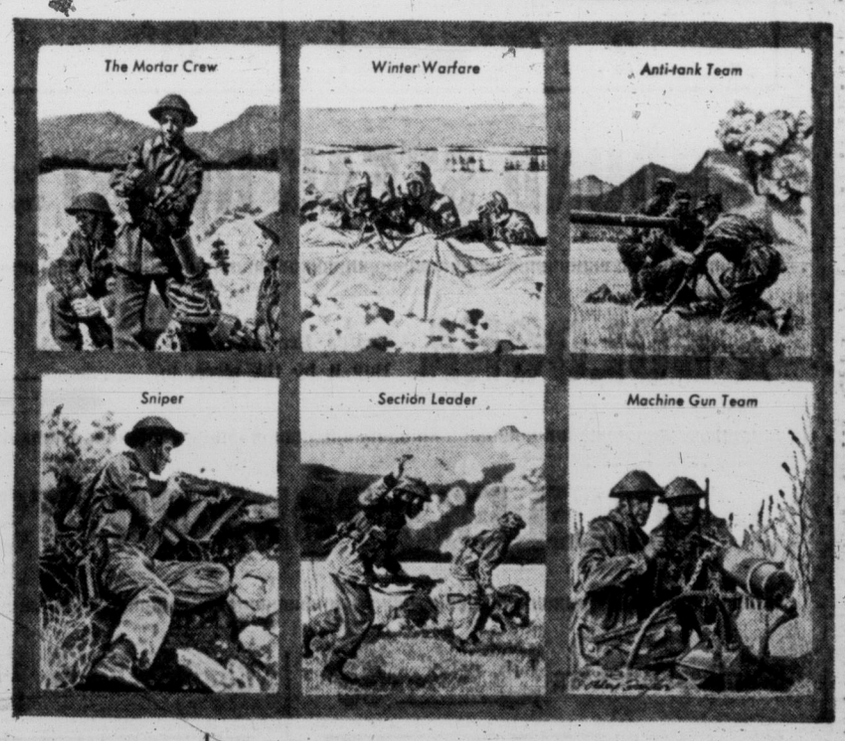
CANADA'S INFANTRY SOLDIERS—SECOND TO NONE

The Infantry soldier is the all-important fighting man in the Army. The record of Canada's Infantry soldiers in Europe, Asia and in Canada — in peace and in war, explains why they are ranked second to none among the fighting men of the world.
The modern Infantry soldier is a highly skilled weapon specialist. He is equipped and trained to operate under widely different conditions . . . winter or summer, day or night, in the arctic or temperate climates, in open country or in forests.
The Infantry soldier masters many trades . . . such as map reading, tactics, intelligence, signals, medical; or he may train as a driver mechanic, tracked and wheeled vehicle driver, or clerk.
Never before have there been so many opportunities for the aggressive young man to make a worthwhile career for himself in the Infantry, as there are right now.
If you're interested in an active outdoor life . . . special opportunities for trades training . . . rapid advancement . . . travel . . . excellent pay and pension plans, join the Infantry . . . NOW!



To be eligible you must be 17 to 40 years of age, skilled tradesmen to 45. When applying bring birth certificate or other proof of age.

B.C. Needs Senate Says Leo Nimsick

Upper House 'for Defeated Socreds' Advocated By MLA for Cranbrook

Leo Nimsick, (CCF-Cranbrook), charged Wednesday the Social Credit government is placing men in the civil service for political reasons.

Mr. Nimsick told the legislature that the surest way the government could encourage "wilful inefficiency in the civil service is through placing men as political favors."

"You can find it everywhere in this province," he said, "there is interference by ministers, and there is no denying money is being spent in the public works department just to win favor."

"Today there is no security in the civil service," said Mr. Nimsick. Public Works Minister Gaglardi retorted: "Name the employees, name them!"

"You are one of the guilty parties," said Mr. Nimsick, waving his finger at the minister.

"Smear campaign," said Mr. Gaglardi.

"It's a smear all right, if you continue to carry on that way," answered Nimsick. "B.C. needs a senate—to put defeated Socreds in there rather than have defeated candidates on holiday trips to Europe."

This was an obvious reference to the trade mission to Europe undertaken by former B.C. finance minister Einar Gunderson, who was twice defeated in attempts to gain a seat.

"Where could you get a more capable man?" said Mr. Gaglardi.

Mr. Nimsick replied: "That's a matter of opinion, the people of Victoria didn't think he was capable enough to be their MLA."

"Defeated MLA's are gallivanting around the country at taxpayers' expense," said the Cranbrook member.

City Surplus Food Stall Opens Feb. 19

Victoria's surplus food stall, out of business for the past month, will open again on February 19.

Originally started by Barbara Green, the stall distributes donated surplus food to welfare cases in the area.

Stall officials announced Wednesday that cards issued by the Welfare Departments in 1954 are no longer valid and that persons wishing to receive hampers are required to obtain new cards and present them for stamping when hampers are received.

Co-ordinator of the stall this year is Mrs. Sydney S. Penny.

Individuals and firms wishing to make donations to the centre should contact Mrs. E. E. Harper at 9-4256, Mrs. Norman Williams, who may be contacted at 4-6596 after 6 p.m., is in charge of deliveries.

Persons wanting to volunteer help for the stall may contact Mrs. Peter Nielson at 4-6176.

Morley Callaghan Wins $5,000 Award

TORONTO (BUP) — Morley Callaghan, Toronto author, won the Maclean's Magazine $5,000 award for his new novel, "The Man With the Coat."

Callaghan, 51, has been writing for 30 years, and has had published 11 novels, two plays, and two collections of short stories.

One of his books, "The Loved and the Lost," won the governor-general's award for the best Canadian novel in 1952.

"The Man With the Coat," will appear serially in Macleans this spring, and will be published in book form in the fall.

CORONATION BILL £1 MILLION

LONDON (Reuters)—British taxpayers got the bill Wednesday for the Coronation. Government accounts issued Wednesday said the total government expenditure on the event was £1,121,808, most of which was spent on grandstands and decorations.

City's Needs Stressed By Mrs. Arsens

The provicincial budget "still might contain some indication" of action on overcrowding in Victoria's courthouse, Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens told the Legislature Wednesday.

She said there is "an extreme need for more facilities, particularly for the land titles office, where storage facilities are completely exhausted."

"I am still hoping some action will be taken this year—there still might be some indication in the budget," said Mrs. Arsens.

She also urged some aid in construction of two new bridges in Victoria. "We hear about bridges being built in other parts of the province," said Mrs. Arsens.

"We would like to see that new bridge that has so long been debated about, we need two in fact, the Johnson Street Bridge, and the Point Ellice Bridge."

It is said the atmosphere of the planet Mars contains virtually no oxygen.

15 Smallpox Deaths Reported in France

PARIS (Reuters)—Parisians today were urged to get themselves vaccinated against smallpox following 15 deaths among 72 smallpox cases in France. Health officials believe soldiers returning from Indo-China brought the disease with them.

PANACEA UNVEILED

'Cracked' But Unashamed Are Socreds, Says Lydia

Victoria MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens told the Legislature Wednesday that Social Credit members may be called "cracked in the dome," but they are not ashamed of it.

Mrs. Arsens' statement came during a short, 15-minute speech during which she defended Social Credit monetary policies, and said:

"People are going mental because of the present financial system. Even doctors will tell you that Social Credit is the only answer."

She said "every member on this side of the House believes in monetary reform, and to say they are not Social Crediters is just not the truth.

"Some people may say we are a little cracked on this side of the House, but we are not ashamed of it," said Mrs. Arsens. "The cracks—cracked in the dome—let in the sunshine and fresh air."

"If Social Credit was in the Federal House there would be no unemployment problems, and no economic problems in Canada," said the Victoria member.

She said that if opposition members would "smoke themselves out, or come to some Social Credit meetings, they would know the answer, not only to unemployment, but bridges, roads and pension schemes, for only Social Credit has the answer.

"The present taxation system has been our downfall," said Mrs. Arsens.

Italian Law Shields Illegitimates

ROME (Reuters)—The Italian Senate has approved a draft law giving illegitimate children fictitious surnames and parents. The law, which now goes to the Chamber of Deputies for final approval, was proposed in order to eliminate what a parliamentarian described as "the life-long shame suffered by a person whose illegitimacy is proclaimed on all his identity documents."

Defects Found in Jet Fighter Big British, Nato Air Weapon

LONDON (UP)—The government admitted today that there are serious defects in the U.S.-backed Hawker Hunter jet fighter plane which is planned as the backbone of the British and NATO air forces.

The official disclosure about the single-engine, swept-wing fighter, for which the North Atlantic allies have placed $270,000,000 in contracts, came in a bitter House of Commons debate on aircraft production.

The Hawker Hunter was developed with British funds, while the United States and NATO countries have earmarked large sums for production models. The Hunter is in super-priority production for the Royal Air Force, NATO forces, Denmark and Sweden, and also is being built under license in Holland and Belgium.

NO AIR DEFENSES

The uproar started when George Ward, under-secretary for air, said the Hawker Hunter is the "hardest-hitting aircraft in service" and could take the air tomorrow.

Labor member Woodrow Wyatt immediately challenged him.

"How can you say it can go into action tomorrow when, if the guns are fired, the engine stalls?" Wyatt demanded.

"Is it not the case that—as the Hunter cannot fight, the Swift won't, the Javelin is not available and there are no guided missiles to replace the anti-aircraft command—we have at present no air defenses whatever for this country?"

Wyatt then asked "when defects would be cured in the Hunter which cause the engine to stall when the guns are fired."

TROUBLE ADMITTED

"This is true," Ward replied, "that at certain heights and in certain conditions of flight a surge is caused in the engine by the firing of the guns.

"It will be necessary to make certain modifications which are now being planned to ensure that in all circumstances the Hunters guns will not affect engine performance."

He expressed confidence the difficulty can be overcome.

An Air Ministry spokesman said the "surge" was caused by muzzle blast from the Hunter's four cannon which affect the air intake. The blast, he said, "causes a rise and fall in power production."

Association Cup Football Draw

Matches to be played Saturday Feb. 19. Replays, if necessary, on or before the following Thursday, Feb. 24.

Canada's Boundary Within 500 Miles of Pole

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada claims sovereignty northward to the three-mile territorial waters limit beyond Ellesmere Island, about 500 miles from the North Pole, Northern Affairs Minister Lesage said Wednesday night.

And her claim has never been challenged.

It includes all the Arctic archipelago from Greenland on the east to the Beaufort Sea on the west, and as far north as Ellesmere, the northernmost island.

Mr. Lesage told a combined press conference-forum meeting that Canada makes this claim on the basis of occupancy through establishment of RCMP patrols and weather stations. He said continuous human presence is not necessary to make the claim valid.

Reminded that sector lines making the Canadian boundary east and west are shown on Canadian maps as converging at the pole, the minister said his department does not make the maps.

Weisman Urges Regional Planning Over Municipal

Planning must be on a regional rather than a municipal basis and there must be an adequate technical staff integrated with local administration, Brahm Weisman, director of the Capital Regional Planning Board, said Wednesday night.

"Our cities are becoming more and more like an urban jungle," he told an audience at City Hall. The listeners were members of the newly-formed local chapter of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

He said that in this area, planning would be on a regional basis because the relationship of roads and sewers, and physical and social networks does not end at municipal boundaries.

Elected to the executive of the group were secretary of Victoria Town Planning Commission, Mrs. E. W. Shepherd, Don Wagg, John Harding, Hugh Mills, Norman Worsley, G. L. Chatterton, Charles Crag, Donald Sparling, A. Musgrave and A. J. Butterfield.

Modern Planes 'Outgrowing' Pat Bay Airfield

New Landing Aid Considered Backward Step in Development

SIDNEY—A visual approach system to be built at Patricia Bay Airport has been interpreted here as a backward step in efforts to have the airport runways extended to accommodate modern aircraft.

With a maximum of 5,000 feet now available, the strips will not serve the new Vickers Viscount turboprop aircraft that TCA will introduce, and which require 5,100 feet.

It is felt in some quarters, therefore, that runway extensions constitute the greatest need at the airport.

The Super-Constellation already in operation on TCA routes requires a runway of 4,600 feet to take off under full load. The "Super-Connies" are not scheduled as regular visitors at the Patricia Bay airport, but several have set down here when poor visibility prohibited landings on the mainland.

PATRONAGE RISING

It has been pointed out here that air travel from the local airport is increasing steadily, and that runways at Prince George are being extended to serve modern aircraft.

It has been stated further that property adjacent to the airport already is owned by the Department of Transport, and that extension of runways would cost no more than the actual price of construction.

Another factor mentioned in support of the extension of runways is the proposed Fairey Aviation Co. development which will provide maintenance services that may be demanded by large aircraft that would find the present runways restrictive.

AUGUMENTS INSTRUMENTS

The new approach system, to be built by the Vancouver firm of Ricketts & Sewell, will augment the instrument landing system now in operation.

It will consist of 180 sealed beam lights of 250 watts each, mounted on posts and focussed to create a pattern of light in the shape of a tear drop, with the narrow end pointing toward the landing strip. The lights will extend 3,000 feet eastward from the end of the landing strip.

The system will be used only when requested by a pilot, and will be varied in intensity according to his orders.

'Flu, Measles Hit School

PARKSVILLE (CP) — Attendance at Parksville schools has been sharply cut due to an epidemic of measles and influenza. At one time 37 per cent of the student body was absent from Parksville junior high and 36 per cent from the elementary school.

WCB Hearing March 20 in Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—The Workmen's Compensation Board will conduct hearings in the West Coast General Hospital here March 2.

Financial secretary for IWA Local 1-85, Jack Moore, has announced that anyone wishing to go before the board should advise the union office prior to Feb. 20.

This will enable board officials to bring necessary files from Vancouver. No examinations or hearings will be made unless workers have advised the board prior to this date.

Anyone who has been advised by the board to appear before it in Port Alberni, and desires help or assistance in presenting his case, may notify the IWA office.

West Coast Road Dream Kiwanis Told

Members of Victoria Kiwanis Club went on an imaginary tour of the west coast of Vancouver Island Tuesday, guided by Maj. George Nicholson, former resident of Zeballos and other west coast ports.

Maj. Nicholson described a trip taken on the old CPR steamer Maquinna, outlining the types of settlements at each of the ship's stops.

He explained where west coast roads would be built, emphasizing the impossibility of a coast road ever being constructed.

"For years people in Victoria have said how nice it would be to build a road along the coastline," he said. "It can't be done. I know. I've walked over most of it and the coast is far too rugged for any road.

"Why there are sections where it would take a 500 or 600-mile road to travel only 50 or 60 miles up the coast.

THE ALTERNATIVE

"The only method," he explained, "and this government, through its forest management licensing, has seen the fact, is to build lateral roads from the east coast of the Island across to points on the west side."

Work is under way already on some lateral roads, he continued, principally on the Sproat Lake to Kennedy Lake road and the Port Renfrew road.

"Although few people realize it, a road has already been constructed from the head of Cowichan Lake to Nitinat Lake, thus enabling residents of Cloo-ose to travel to the head of the lake by boat and thence by road to Victoria."

Hospital Wage Contract Wins Board Support

Ladysmith Signs New Agreements

LADYSMITH — Hospital trustee Ron Bowen, speaking for the labor relations committee, gave a full report of labor relations meetings with hospital employees' Union agent W. Black and representatives from hospitals at Duncan, Nanaimo and Port Alberni when Ladysmith General Hospital board met Monday night.

The report dealt with salaries and regulations for the nursing and lay staffs. The meeting approved the new nurses' contract and agreed to the proposed lay staff contract.

Mrs. G. B. Lytton, president, thanked the committee on behalf of the board for the hard work and time spent on the preparation of the contract.

D. McKinnon, administrator, reported sending a letter of thanks to Native Daughters Post No. 7, for the baby scales which it had donated to the nursery.

It was reported that Mrs. Renee Hall will be the official representative of the board from the hospital auxiliary.

Preliminary preparations were made for the annual meeting, to be held March 25.

Hospital statistics showed 53 patients were admitted to hospital during December, accounting for 416 patient days. Eight babies were born during the month.

Nursing Service Project Popular

COURTENAY (CP) — Overwhelming support from organizations in School District 71 has been given to the proposed visiting nurse service to be administered by the Upper Island Health Unit.

Most organizations were represented at a meeting here, including ctiy councils of Cumberland and Courtenay. Forty-seven delegates representing 40 organizations were in attendance. H. E. Spencer was in the chair.

Commissioner Visits Island Scouts, Cubs

GANGES—A visit to Salt Spring Island was made last week by J. Blaine, Boy Scout field commissioner for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, when he spent some time with the Scout troop and cub pack.

On hand to meet and talk with Mr. Blaine were 16 scouts and 14 cubs, together with R. Toms, scoutmaster, and Mrs. J. B. Eberts and Mrs. J. Sturdy, in charge of the Cubs. Later, a committee meeting was held at Harbor House Hotel with Lieut.-Col. Desmond Crofton, chairman; J. B. Acland, Archdeacon G. H. Holmes, Mr. Toms, Mrs. Sturdy and Mrs. Eberts.

It is proposed to show a film of the 1953 scout jamboree sometime in March so that the public may have an opportunity to see a film on scouting. Used postage stamps will be collected by the Scouts and Cubs in order to help the finances of the world jamboree this summer. Stamps may be sent to any member of the committee.

The United Church of Ganges has invited the Scouts and Cubs to attend the morning service Sunday.

Sunday School Group Enjoys Class Party

LANGFORD—Children of St. Matthew's Sunday school, Langford, enjoyed a party at the church Saturday afternoon under the direction of Miss Phyllis Tayler, Sunday school superintendent, and her staff of teachers.

Games, a fish pond, films, and a sit-down supper were enjoyed by the 48 children attending.

Dolls Made on Island Sought By World Famous Collectors

NANOOSE BAY (CP)—Mrs. Betsy Howard earns a living for herself and her invalid husband by selling home-made dolls to connoisseurs, collectors and celebrities.

In a little roadside workshop on the Vancouver Island highway near here, Mrs. Howard turns out her dolls from colorful characters in legend, nursery tale and history.

Sir Winston Churchill was given a doll dressed as a Scot and he sent the elderly woman a letter praising her craftsmanship. Numerous movie celebrities seek out Mrs. Howard, sometimes coming to Vancouver Island for the specific purpose of buying dolls.

Mrs. Howard began marketing her dolls six years ago when a doctor told her she was working too hard.

DID FARM CHORES

Until then, the English-born woman owned a dairy farm, milked 10 cows a day, did all the other farming chores and looked after her invalid husband.

Besides the dolls she sells at the door, Mrs. Howard supplies a specialty store in Victoria and another in Vancouver.

Three of her dolls won three first prizes at the San Diego Doll Fair.

Mrs. Howard starts by making heads and faces of fine silk dyed flesh color, stuffed hard with wool. High-lighting, expression, complexion are done with fadeless pastel. Then she paints on mouth and eyes with lacquer. Real hair is supplied in assorted colors and types by a barber who saves his customers' locks for her.

She is especially particular about footwear for her dolls. A Vancouver Island logger has properly spiked boots; a toreador's shoes are patent leather; a dancer wears ballet shoes.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Most of the time, the English language and I get along amicably enough. The English language tolerates me, and I am an easy-going-type, willing to let the English language go its way without interference.

But there are times when the English language rubs me the wrong way, and I wish I had been born in darkest Africa and learned to speak Kposso.

This feeling of annoyance with my native tongue is upon me today. And all because someone remarked that a certain young lady was "cute as a button."

Now, I ask you, is that a nice way to speak of a young lady?

What, may I ask, is cute about a button? A button is strictly utilitarian, not a thing to be as cute as.

If the phrase is to be used at all, at least it should be brought up to date and revised to: "Cute as a zipper."

Another phrase which irks me is high and dry.

This is a contradition in terms. How can a man be high and also dry at the same time?

And examine, if you will, the expression "snug as a bug in a rug."

What research has been done to prove a rug-inhabiting bug is snug? It is more likely the bug has claustrophobia, and instead of being snug, is actually very uncomfortable and wishes it were out in the fresh air and sunshine.

One of the most annoying phrases is "Never say die." While I admire the spirit which inspired the phrase, I dislike it intensely because it is such a contradiction.

How can you say "never say die" without saying "die"? If you never say "die," you must also never say "never say die."

There are many more confusing and irksome aspects of the language. For instance, the title "general manager." Does this mean generals aren't able to manage themselves, and have to acquire a manager to manage them?

You would think a man clever enough to become a general would be able to get along without a manager.

Also, the title vice-president. This is so confusing, I don't dare discuss it in a family newspaper.

But I mustn't go on too much about the English language. It might get cross with me.

I do wish to state, though, that none of the inconsitencies mentioned above occur in darkest Africa, where the enlightened populace speaks Kposso and other sensible languages.

The English language will never replace Kposso.

City, Nanaimo Clash in Bid For Ferryboats

Byers Questions Assessment Act Legality

Assessors' Powers Said Taken Away

Legality of the Equalization of Assessments Act was challenged by city lawyer J. A. Byers at Court of Revision at City Hall today.

He indicated he would appeal the assessment against his home to the Court of Revision Appeal Board and if necessary take the matter to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Byers appealed an increase in assessment of his Foul Bay Road home from $4,740 in 1954 to $6,160 in 1955. The appeal was dismissed.

Chairman of the court of revision, Forrest L. Shaw said Mr. Byers' argument was on a point of law which could only be settled in a court of law.

POWERS TAKEN

Mr. Byers charged that under the recent act the powers of the city assessor, given to him by the Municipal Act, have been taken away.

"The whole method of assessment is contrary to both the acts," he told the court.

There is no authority for an arbitrary percentage increase to be dictated by the Parliament Buildings and the power of the assessor to be taken away, he added.

He argued that the 1954 assessment had been set by the assessor to the best of his ability and that there had been no improvements to his home since then, nor had market conditions changed.

He added that the 30 per cent blanket increase ordered for Victoria residences by the provincial government was usurping the powers of the city assessor.

Victorians Termed 'Dogs in the Manger'

Verbal skirmishing in the "battle for the ferryboats" kept prominent citizens of Victoria and Nanaimo busy today, following the CPR's refusal to start a southern Vancouver Island-Mainland run.

Nanaimo's attitude was summarized by Chamber of Commerce president Douglas Greer with: "Victorians are being dogs in the manger."

And Victoria's retort, in the words of C. of C. transportation committee chairman James Genge was: "We're certainly not out to hurt Nanaimo. We're simply trying to get a decent ferry service, we feel, is justified from the standpoint of economics."

The "ferry fight" developed after CPR vice-president N. R. Crump notified Victoria C. of C. his company's decision to stand pat on present Southern Island steamer services.

Chamber of Commerce men here said the CPR's attitude was benefitting Nanaimo at Victoria's expense, which brought prompt rebuttal from Nanaimo.

Referring to Nanaimo charges of a Victoria "dog-in-the-manger" attitude, Mr. Genge said: "We haven't the manger; someone else has."

Thomas Denny, who with Mr. Genge has devoted much time and effort in pushing for a fast ferry service between Saanich peninsula and the mainland, said it was not Victoria's desire to hurt Nanaimo's position.

Glad Nanaimo Given Modern Ships

"We're very glad Nanaimo has been successful in getting up-to-date equipment to carry all types of wheeled vehicles and enjoy 11 sailings a day. We used Nanaimo as an example. We have only two sailings a day and the equipment here won't handle all types of vehicles."

The chamber's contention is that almost 50 per cent of the traffic passing through Nanaimo originates south of the Malahat. If a ferry service from Saanichton were inaugurated, the chamber says, these travelers would save four hours time and avoid the long Up-island drive.

The road distance between Victoria and Nanaimo is 70 miles and the boat trip from Nanaimo to Vancouver, 34 miles.

A ferry between Swartz Bay and Steveston, the chamber points out, would have to cover only 30 miles and motorists going from Victoria to Vancouver would have to drive only 35 miles—20 miles at this end and 15 at the other.

Faster to Drive, Says Nanaimo Mayor

Nanaimo's Mayor George Muir joined Mr. Greer in protesting the Victoria argument.

Said the mayor: "With the present fine condition of the roads, I can't understand why people even think of going to Victoria direct from the mainland instead of coming to Nanaimo and driving down. It is faster that way.

"I can't understand why Victoria is getting worried."

But Dr. Larry Giovando, Nanaimo's MLA, took a different view. He said:

"Victoria is entitled to a fast ferry service from Sidney to some point on the mainland."

"I agree with the people in Victoria who claim that not having the service is a serious matter," he said. I know the majority of people of the Gulf Islands want a ferry connection with Victoria. They would greatly appreciate a fast ferry link that would connect the Saanich Peninsula with the mainland."

He said that such a service actually would benefit Nanaimo since it would form the third leg of a triangle trip, a type that always is popular with tourists.

"I am all in favor of a service from Sidney to the mainland that will incorporate the Gulf Islands," Dr. Giovando said.

R. M. Strachan, MLA (CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle), whose home is in Nanaimo, said:

"This is a jurisdictional dispute between the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce. I do not think that what either of them says will affect the decision of the CPR in the matter, since the CPR always does what is best for the CPR."

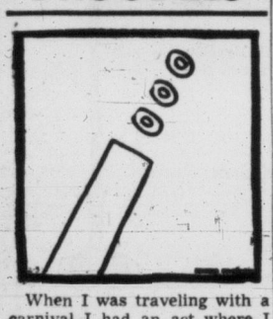
DROODLES



When I was traveling with a carnival I had an act where I shot a man (fellow named McTavish) out of a cannon. But what problems I had! First, I had to drag the 155-millimetre cannon around behind my car (I always pointed the barrel to the rear to discourage wise guys who honk their horns when traffic lights change) and then before every performance I had to take McTavish to a local tavern and get him loaded. This got too expensive so I got rid of McTavish (it was easy and worked out a much more novel version of the man-shot-out-of-a-cannon act). I hired a troupe of midgets and shot them out of a machine gun.

300 Petition Against BCE Sub-Station

Some 300 Lake Hill householders have signed a petition protesting against the proposed B.C. Electric Co. plan for the construction of a $1,000,000 power sub-station, near Borden Street, and the erection of high-voltage lines on steel towers in Saanich.

This was reported today by A. J. Barr, a member of the Saanich Voters' Association.

Petitioners will attend a public meeting at a Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall at 8 tonight to further protest against the proposed project. Fred Bordon, a Lake Hill resident, will act as chairman.

Mr. Barr said the association was against the project because it will effect property values and several new sub-divisions in the district.

$329,000 Lowest Bid on Vic High Alterations

A $329,000 bid by Luney Brothers and Hamilton Ltd. was the smallest received by Greater Victoria School Board Wednesday for construction of additions and alterations at Victoria High School.

But no decision had been reached at noon today as to granting of contracts.

The project was the last item for completion in the 1947 school by-law. It includes construction of an additional gym, five classrooms and other minor changes.

Tenders from nine firms were opened by the board at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Then the tenders were turned over to building and ground committee for study and consultation with the department of education.

T. L. Christie, secretary-treasurer of the board, said some bids contained alternatives which might lower the accepted bid further.

City Woman Leaves $97,600 Estate

An estate valued at $97,660 was left in the will of Maria Emmeline Fowler Bullock-Webster, formerly of 810 Foul Bay Road, who died here on December 13 at the age of 84 years.

The will was probated today in Supreme Court.

Chief beneficiaries are daughters Barbara Helen Bullock-Webster of Victoria, and Marian Isabel Walker of Qualicum Beach.

They will receive $51,483 and $43,177 respectively.

DON'T 'JUMP' RED LIGHTS, CHIEF WARNS

Too many people—motorists and pedestrians alike—are jumping red traffic lights in Victoria, Police Chief John Blackstock said today.

As a result police are going to "crack down" on both types of violators.

A special detail will be sent out to deal with the light-jumpers, he said.

Too many complaints of motorists going through intersections on amber lights and pedestrians leaving the curb after a light has changed from green was given as cause of the crack-down.

Victoria Area Sets Building Record

Greater Victoria set a new January building record of $2,410,911, a compilation of construction permit figures released by city and municipal building inspectors revealed today.

City total is $1,862,361.

Fifty-three houses valued at $350,000 were started in Saanich during January, compared with 13 dwellings in January of 1954. Total value of 79 permits issued was $369,900.

Oak Bay reported 41 permits for January with a valuation of $99,840. This includes seven houses valued at $91,500.

Esquimalt's total for the month was $88,050, with six new houses at $49,400 and Standard Furniture's $30,000 warehouse.

Dallas Road Work Could Use Jobless, Says Unionist

Unemployed men could be put to work in Victoria on Dallas Road, where Capital Region Planning Board plans to spend $50,000, a TLC member said Wednesday night.

J. A. Driscoll, member of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, asked at the council meeting how the board's $50,000 provincial grant was being spent.

Only visible improvements to the area were some concrete steps and trimmed shrubbery, he said.

"What's happened to the money?" he demanded.

"We've got unemployed men here, and those men could be working on Dallas Road waterfront."

The meeting decided to ask the board how money is being spent.

No Secrecy, Says Mooney, With Invite

Reporters may be invited to attend a City Hall committee meeting Friday in spite of the fact that such attendance would contravene the 1954 Secrecy By-law.

Alderman Millard Mooney, acting chairman of the public works committee, said he will issue the invitation to the press to prove there is no secrecy at City Hall. "You are not barred from committee meetings," he told the Times. "Anyone can attend if they are invited."

The mayor has not indicated whether he would oppose the suggestion. It violates the by-law.

The by-law restricting reporters from attending committee meetings was passed at the mayor's suggestion.

The pertinent part of the Procedure By-law states, "Every committee will conduct its deliberations with no other persons present than those of the committee."

OFFICIALS ALLOWED

The only exception is permitted in a tacked-on proviso which says, "Wherever in this by-law the attendance of the municipal manager and the solicitor is required, their attendance shall not be affected by the exclusion of any persons as therein mentioned."

No allowance is made for attendance of the city engineer or the assistant city clerk, who both attend numerous committee meetings.

But this morning Ald Mooney stated, "No one is barred from committee meetings if the committee invites them. The mayor or no one else has any right to interfere with committees.

PROVE POINT

"I am doing this to prove my point. It will be up to the committee whether it continues."

He added that city business is no different than private business. "You wouldn't get into Eaton's private business sessions, would you?" he asked.

Ald. Mooney stated that he is still opposed to changing the by-law. Last week he voted against changing that portion of the same by-law, which Ald. Donald Smith charges permits censoring of the mail by the mayor before it reaches council.

Kitching to Inspect 25th Militia Group

First informal inspection by B.C. Area Commander of 25th Militia Group, Bay Street Armory, will be made next Tuesday night by Brigadier George Kitching, Vancouver.

He will be accompanied by GSO2 Major J. G. Sharpe; DAQMG Major H. Trimble and DAAG Captain Mike McLaughlane.

Brigadier Kitching assumed his post Jan. 24, prior to which he was officer commanding the Second Infantry Brigade.

DOUBLE TALK BY CIVIC CLOCK

Famous clock that struck five when hands said 2.30 and actual time was 10:17 had a counterpart today in Victoria.

At 8 a.m. one face of the four-sided timepiece atop the City Hall showed the time as 10 o'clock.

According to the building inspector's office, which takes care of the clock, its ailment is not considered serious.

Crowded Armory Militia Parades To Be Staggered

Militia parades at Bay Street Armory Tuesday nights probably will be carried on a staggered basis in future, Capt. C. M. McLeod said today.

With three units parading at one time, parade floor space is not great enough to accommodate all the men.

Groups which train at the Armory are 5th West Coast Harbor Defense Battery, combining three artillery units; 40th Technical Squadron, RCEME, and 25th Medical Company.

Soon to begin a new program of training is the 5th West Coast Harbor Defense Battery, which will set up guns and searchlights in the Armory. It is converting from anti-aircraft to surface guns.

The battery will shoot three-inch guns at Mary Hill on Feb. 26, and on March 19 will conduct practice firing at Belmont on six-pounders.

CURLING RESULTS

Three upsets were scored this morning in the third annual Victoria Curling Club bonspiel.

Tony Gutoski, Victoria's Brier representative at Kamloops next week, lost his first match in the spiel to Bill Ludlow, also of Victoria, 9-7.

Art Gooder of Vancouver, defending champion in three events, was eliminated from the Colonist Challenge by fellow townsman Jim McConachie, 12-10.

It was Gooder's second loss in two days.

Victoria's Jim Tang upset Cliff Cathro, 9-5, in another game. Cathro beat Oliver's Dick Topping, a heavy favorite, Wednesday.

Harry Croll of Victoria won his fifth straight draw today. Other undefeated rinks with six straight victories are Larry Marshall of Duncan and Frank Burden, Victoria.

Early scores today follow:

The 7.30 draw results follow: Moir 14, Robson 3; Koffski 12, Clarke 4; McConachie 12, Gooder 10; Croll 9, Diercks 5; Walkey 10, Keyes 6; Robertson 18, Roberts 3; Ross 9, Earle 8; Dunstan 11, Gallaugher 1.

10 a.m. draw: McTavish 10, Valleau 4; Bullock 9, Hodgson 6; Marshall 9, Sellar 2; Topping 16, Gates 7; Bowbyes 11, McDougall 10; Burden 8, B. Wilson 7.

City Mother Leaves Two Sons $45,487

Two sons will share a $45,487 estate of Margaret Vere Scott-Moncrieff, formerly of 1342 Harrison Street, who died here on November 7. Her will was probated in Supreme Court today.

Beneficiaries are: Ronald of 663 Radcliffe Lane, and Louis of Vancouver.

ASK The TIMES

Q. For how many years have photos of the interior of the B.C. Legislative Chamber during a session opening such as the one that appeared on the front page of the Daily Times on Jan. 26 just past been taken? O.T.

A. There was a picture of the opening of the 1935 session on the front page of the Times on Feb. 13 of that year under which it was stated that was the first occasion on which such a photo had been taken.

Q. Will you please tell me the address of the recruiting office in Seattle for the Marine Corps? M.F.G.

A. A street address of a national service known throughout the republic is hardly necessary. U.S. Marine Corps, Recruiting Office, Seattle, Wash., U.S.A., undoubtedly will cause proper delivery of a letter.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

A SPECIAL COMMITTEE today began selecting from the city voters list a total of 45 men who will serve on the panel jury for the Criminal Assizes. The assizes will open in Victoria on March 15. Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane will preside at the spring session. Left to right are committee members who selected the jury: Eric Wilkinson, sheriff, John P. Abel, registrar; Mrs. E. Acreman, stenographer; Bob Owens, JP., and J. R. Saunders, JP. (Times photo.)

Loggers Should Work 2,000 Hours Yearly, Get Guaranteed Wage, Gibson Tells House

MLA's Wednesday heard details of the "Gibson method" of providing loggers a guaranteed annual wage, and stabilizing B.C.'s most vital industry.

Former lumberman Gordon Gibson (Lib., Lillooet) presented this formula to the House:

Loggers should work 2,000 hours a year, by putting in nine hours a day, six days a week, if necessary, when the woods are open.

Their pay should be given them in 12 monthly payments, even if they do not work at all in some months, when the woods are closed by snow or fire season.

"Harvesters on the prairies work long hours when they are getting the crops in," he said. "Let's harvest our forests, instead of working up to our bellies in snow in the winter."

Mr. Gibson said loggers in this province are only getting in 1,500 hours a year. When Anthony Gargrave (CCF-MacKenzie) objected to working nine hours a day, Gibson retorted:

"Don't give me this nonsense about 40 hours a week—if that's all we can work it's time we got our belly muscles back in shape. I made it by working more than eight hours."

He said that after a logger had put in his 2,000 hours, even if it was October, he could "either keep on working, at time and one-half rates, or take a trip to California."

Mr. Gibson said the logging business today is not remunerative enough to pay overtime rates, and that loggers and operators would both be better off if they knew at the start of a year they would get in 2,000 hours.

Tidy Up the Kitchen With This Dilly of a Lid Rack

By PENNY SAVER

Let's make this the day that we do all those little chores in the kitchen . . . the ones that we've been putting off. For instance, all those lids for your pots and pans . . . they've cluttered the bottom shelf of the cupbaord long enough. A lid rack, measuring 3⅝ inches by 10⅝ inches holds all sizes. It's made of shiny chrome and costs $1.69. It will fit on the inside of your cupboard door, and then you'll have extra space for your pots and pans.

If your cups are stacked one inside the other, and are being perpetually knocked over, this cup hanger that I found is just for you. It will hold 12 cups, and is made of chrome. You fasten it under a shelf, and when you want a cup, the whole works slides out on a moveable rod, and it is right within your reach. Only 89 cents! It would really dress up your shelves and think of the space saved!

Have you ever wanted to really dress up a dinner, but have been at a loss how to do something different? Well, how about preparing those potatoes in little balls. . . . How? With a fruit and potato scoop, of course.

For 45 cents, you can buy a fruit and potato baller, that is a real whiz. There is a red wooden handle, and on each end of the handle there is a metal semi-circle . . . two different sizes. You can use it with other vegetables and fruits, too, especially when summer comes along. Melon balls dolled up for dessert is a real delicacy . . . and they look so good besides.

Do you feel in the need of a new hat? I know where you can buy them for half price. Ones that particularly caught my eye were tiny, close-fitting ones made of feathers. Sprinkled here and there were little brilliants . . . as I said before, half price . . . $3.49. You have blue, tan, and rose to choose from.

Have you a tear in the bathroom curtains, or perhaps a little slit in your transparent plastic raincoat? I found a Vinyl plastic mender. It's made of transparent plastic, and you iron it on. Just place the tape along the tear and press with a hot iron. Being transparent, this tape is wonderful for mending plastics that have designs on them. For 39 cents you buy 120 inches . . . and it really works well, I tried it. Garment bags, tablecovers, shower curtains, anything that's made of plastic can be mended with this tape.

Widower Keeps Mementos Of His Heartbreaker Days

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Memories associated with pleasant experiences are not easily forgotten. Reminders of happy events in the past keep these memories alive. A widow writes:

(Q)—"I am a widow of 50. I have been doing housework for a widower for the past eight years. A few months ago, he asked me to marry him. He still has his old love letters and pictures of himself and his old girls hung up around the house, and he also likes those pictures of scantily-dressed girls. I told him if I married him I wouldn't want those things around. He says I'm old-fashioned and jealous, and that they don't mean a thing to him. He claims his first wife never said anything about them. What do you think?"

Hurlock

(A)—I think the only problem connected with this widower's keeping the keepsakes of his youth is whether you make it a problem or not. You cannot expect this man to give up memories of his youth when, as he now believes, he was a handsome Romeo with whom girls fell in love at the drop of a hat.

To bolster these memories, he keeps his old love letters and pictures of himself with the different girls who were in love with him. This helps him to relive the days when he felt he was a heart-breaker.

His liking for pictures of scantily-dressed girls likewise helps him to relive the past, when he felt he was sexually attractive to women. It is a form of compensation for his waning sexual attractiveness.

I cannot see that the retention of old love letters and pictures will interfere with a happy marriage. If they were letters from and pictures of one girl, or of his former wife, that would be a different story. It would mean that his love for her was still strong enough that you would be playing second fiddle to her if you married him.

If you want to marry this man, go ahead and do so. Don't say any more about the letters and pictures. After a time, you may be able to take down the pictures and put them in a box with the old love letters in the attic where he can look at them when he begins to feel old and unattractive. They will boost his waning ego but won't hurt you.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Carbohydrates Are Okay Where Energy Is Needed

Even when we sleep our bodies require a certain amount of energy, that wonderful stuff which means being alive. The greater our activity the more energy we need.

I have often warned reducers through this column about eating candy and other high-caloried carbohydrates, because if you indulge in many of these you will not have enough calories left for the essential foods for health, especially when losing weight during which time your food intake is cut low.

However, even the reducer needs some carbohydrate foods. These can consist of a moderate amount of sugar, baked potatoes, cereals and bread. If your "sweet tooth" is extremely demanding you can have a couple of pieces of hard candy after dinner. A fresh fruit cup, with one teaspoonful of sugar will give you vitamins you need and only a moderate calorie count.

Children expend so much energy that they need a big boost in quick energy. Candy has its place in their picture but there are two factors which must be considered.

Be sure that your children use candy as a dessert or as a quick pickup at mid-afternoon. By that I mean that they should not have candy near enough to a meal which gives them the essentials for health, because a few candy bars will make them lose their appetite for the foods absolutely necessary for their healthy development.

Also remember that sugar quickens tooth decay. Therefore a child or adult should brush their teeth immediately after eating highly concentrated sugar items.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Symphony Committee To Sponsor Films

Members of the women's committee of the Victoria Symphony Society made plans for their next project at meeting held in the home of Mrs. F. D. Mara, Pemberton Road. This will be an evening when Edward Goodall will show films. Misses Irene Sparks and Doreen Hearle were named conveners.

Final details of the symphony ball were presented by Mrs. Elza Mayhew and tickets distributed to members for sale. The affair will be held in the Empress Hotel on Feb. 11.

A new member, Miss Moira Screech, was introduced.

Through Lips of Instructor Child Learns to Speak, Hear and See

HALIFAX (CP)—In a crowded building where 160 children live in silence a devoted woman spends her days trying to bring meaning into the cramped world of a little girl who lives in darkness as well.

Twelve-year-old Marjorie Golinsky was born deaf, dumb and blind.

She has never heard a sound and never will, though she has a hearing aid to catch the vibrations of the words she's slowly learning to form. Her eyes can detect the difference between strong light and shadow, but little more.

CAME FROM ALBERTA

Two years ago Marjorie lived in Alberta and authorities had all but decided to place her in a mental institution for life. There seemed no way to reach her mind. Psychologists say that without communication a person's intelligence remains like an infant's.

Then her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Golinsky of Glenevis, near Edmonton, heard of the work being done here by Louise Fearon.

Miss Fearon at the school for the deaf which serves the Atlantic provinces had then been teaching the deaf-blind successfully for 10 years. She had been teaching the merely deaf for 40 years.

Two older girls, since graduated, were being taught by warm, grey-haired Miss Fearon when Marjie arrived. Now the little girl has the teacher to herself.

Every day the smiling, patient teacher and the child sit opposite one another at a narrow table in a bright little room filled with toys Marjie loves, but has never seen.

FALTERING SENTENCES

She knows most of a sound alphabet now, only she's never heard the sounds. She can talk with her fingers and can even say a few sentences in the weird, faltering tone of children who cannot hear their own voices.

She can say "I want my doll," or "I want a cookie," but even the simplest words can come to her only after long, patient repetition.

"People don't realize it," says Miss Fearon, "but deafness is a much greater handicap than blindness. Practically everything an ordinary child learns first is from the speech of the parents.

"When a child is blind as well as deaf, well . . ."

LEARNS BY ASSOCIATION

Miss Fearon teaches Marjie to associate things she knows, like her big raggedy Ann doll, with sensations on her hands. It is like the hand alphabet of the deaf, only instead of seeing the gestures Marjie is made to feel them.

Then she is taught to associate the finger bendings and hand slappings with vibrations she feels when she touches her teacher's throat and lips.

Twelve-year-old Marjorie Golinsky finds new life opening to her now.

Somehow the impossible happens and Marjie's throat and lips make the same sound.

She's also learning to read and write braille.

"She's such a cute little girl," Miss Fearon smiles fondly. "Now she's getting some fun out of life. When she first came her face was set rigidly in one expression."

PAID BY GOVERNMENT

Marjorie's fees at the school, $1,800 a year, are twice those of an ordinary deaf child. They're paid by the Alberta government. The rest of the children are from the Atlantic provinces and usually their fees are split between their municipal and provincial governments.

Hobo Hop Dance At Cordova Bay

An informal evening of dancing is planned by the Evening Guild, St. David's Church-by-the-Sea, this Saturday. Sponsored by Victoria North Kiwanis Club in aid of the building fund of St. David's Church-by-the-Sea, the dance will take the form of a Hobo Hop. The Cordova Bay Community Hall will be transformed for the evening into a replica of a hobo's camp. Dancing will last from 9 p.m. to midnight, to music supplied by the Hometowners. Convening the dance is Mrs. Kay Porter, who has appointed Mrs. Agnes Giese in charge of tickets, and Mrs. Audrey Mores and Mrs. Phyllis O'Connell, the refreshments. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Evening Guild or by phoning Mrs. Porter, 9-3344.

LONDON IGNORES FLAT LOOK

LONDON (AP)—The London look is the little boy look this year.

The flat look is out. Bodices are long, with gently curved waistlines. Hips are emphasized with low-placed pockets, turned-up cuffs and wide swatching skirts, generally about an inch shorter than last year.

The last showings of London's spring collections opened during the week-end sandwiched between the Italian and the French shows.

Royal Roads Chapter IODE Completes Successful Year

Reports that showed success in every project undertaken in the past year, were presented at annual dinner meeting of Royal Roads Chapter, IODE, in the ladies' parlor at Oak Bay United Church, Wednesday evening.

With only 19 active members the group met all commitments and assisted in many extra-curricular projects.

Secretary, Mrs. P. Angus, listed chief money-making projects as a bridge tea, a lecture, joint sponsorship with other chapters of a dance revue, a rummage sale, doll raffle and sale of greeting cards and stationery.

Donations were made to the Korean Relief Fund; slippers and pillow cases were presented to Victoria Detention Home; a 25-lb parcel containing books for the library and special treats was sent to the chapter's adopted patients in Veterans' Hospital.

The chapter also gave donations to IODE secondary education, work in India, film fund, the Peace Garden and Miss McLean Retirement Fund. With other chapters in the city it contributed to furnishings of the solarium in the new Gorge Road treatment home.

Mrs. H. Thurman, treasurer, announced receipts as $740.15 and disbursements, $575. Other reports were given by Mrs. J. F. C. Blowey, educational and services at home and abroad; Mrs. A. Cripps, Echoes; Mrs. I. Trahan, standard bearer; Mrs. A. McClure, Veterans' Hospital; Mrs. D. E. Alcorn, press and publicity, and Mrs. Max Zabel, Empire study. Mrs. G. Beevers, in her regent's report, spoke enthusiastically of the interest taken in the chapter by all members.

Mrs. Beevers was re-elected regent for another year, with Mrs. Shepherd, first vice-regent; Mrs. McClure, second; Mrs. Zabel, secretary; Mrs. Angus, treasurer; Mrs. Blowey, educational secretary; Mrs. Cripps, Echoes; Mrs. Trahan, standard bearer; Mrs. Alcorn, Mrs. Crowe, Mrs. Trahan and Mrs. H. Thurman, councillors.

Nominating committee was Mrs. Cripps, Mrs. Blowey and Mrs. Alcorn.

Red, white and blue colors were used in dinner table decorations with white wax waterlilies holding lighted colored candles. Seated with Mrs. Beevers at the head table were Mrs. J. L. Gates, Victoria Municipal Chapter regent; Mrs. Thomas Lumsden, immediate past Municipal Chapter regent, and Mrs. O. B. Ormond, a vice-president of Provincial Chapter, IODE.

Parish Hall Fund Adopted As Project

GANGES—At a meeting of St. George's Evening Branch, W.A., it was decided to make the parish hall fund the branch's main project for the year, and an initial donation of $50 was made to the fund. Mrs. J. Parsons, president, was in charge of the meeting, and the treasurer, Mrs. J. Wood, reported a balance of $131.91. Flannelette and wool will be purchased by Mrs. B. Greenhough, Doras secretary, for work on the layettes and an afghan will be knitted during the meeting using odd wool.

Kitchen Showers Sponsored By Church Group

Showers for the church kitchen now under construction will temporarily replace the monthly tea and flower fund, it was decided at meeting of Langford United Church Women's Auiliary. Next meeting will take the form of a cup and saucer shower at the home of Mrs. G. R. LeQuesne, 66 Leigh Road.

Mrs. W. Tingle was named head of the membership committee and church welcoming group for the month will include Mrs. R. LeQuesne, Mrs. E. F. LeQuesne, Mrs. J. LeQuesne and Mrs. T. McKay.

Mrs. J. C. Nimmo reported on a tour her committee made to view kitchens in various churches in Greater Victoria and presented recommendations for the new church kitchen from this tour.

Older Young People's Group, St. John's Anglican Church Valentine tea, Hudson's Bay Douglas room, Saturday from 2.30 to 4 p.m.

Frances Hornby Barkley Chapter, IODE, rummage sale, Public Market Saturday, 8 a.m.

Welfare Services Described at Local Council

An address on "Community Planning for Human Services" by Ronald Hooper, executive secretary for the Community Chest, brought to a conclusion two day-long sessions of the 61st annual meeting of Victoria Council of Women, Wednesday afternoon.

Good attendance was experienced throughout, 29 out of 37 affiliated societies being represented and giving reports. Mrs. E. E. Livesey presided at all sessions which were held in the music room of the public library.

In his address, Mr. Hooper outlined the function and purpose of the Welfare Council and described needs to be filled in widening the scope of welfare services, particularly mentioning the great dearth of trained personnel in various fields. Mr. Hooper was accorded a vote of thanks by Mrs. J. M. Thomas.

Several resolutions were introduced during Wednesday morning. Three from the Vancouver Council of Women and the Elizabeth Fry Society dealt with the Girls' Industrial School. Elizabeth Fry Society also presented one regarding an addition to the present women's jail, and another dealing with the appointment of a senior social worker for the women's jail. All resolutions considered at the annual meeting will be voted on by delegates at the Provincial Council meeting.

Affiliates presenting reports Wednesday were as follows: Victoria and Oak Bay CCF Women's Council, Mrs. R. Johnson; White Cane Club, Miss Lottie Bowron; Victoria Social Credit Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. N. Smith; University Women's Club, Miss Ellen Hart; YWCA, Mrs. A. J. Butterfield; Colwood Women's Institute, Miss Savory, and a new affiliate, Regina Peiser Hadassah Chapter, Mrs. G. H. Wilson.

Standing committee reports were given by their chairmen: Citizenship, Miss Ellen Hart; re-creative arts, Dr. Anderson; health and welfare, Mrs. A. J. Tullis, and economics and taxation, Mrs. R. Burton.

Official Visit to Lodge

Supreme Queen Charlotte E. Nolte, Baltimore, Md.

Miriam Temple, No. 2, Daughters of the Nile, is being honored today by an official visit from Charlotte Nolte, Supreme Queen of the Supreme Temple, Daughters of the Nile. She arrived in the city this afternoon accompanied by Viva Donough, Nydia Temple, No. 4, Portland, Ore.; Supreme Princess Zulekia; Junior Past Queen Madeline Peterson, Nydia Temple; Thelma Fink, Hatsu Temple, No. 1, Seattle, supreme lady of the gates; Lily Eytel, Bremerton, Wash.; Harriet Guldager and Nora Moorhouse, Zuleima Temple, No. 13, Ashland, Ore., and Dorothy Trafton, Princess Badoura, Zarah Temple, No. 72, Vancouver, B.C. Also in Victoria are past supreme Queens Mabelle Boone and Sally Luke, both of Portland.

Heading a welcoming committee that met these distinguished lodge visitors this afternoon was Mrs. Bessie Bayliss, queen of the local temple, who will also preside at a dinner tonight in the Empress Hotel. Later, a ceremonia. will take place in K of P Hall which has been beautifully decorated in an Oriental motif for exemplification of initiatory work.

Among many local temple members here for the occasion is a delegation from both Courtenay and Nanaimo clubs.

Supreme Queen Nolte, whose home is in Baltimore, Md., will go to Seattle and then Tacoma to visit temples, following her stay in Victoria. In mid-February she will fly to Hawaii on an official visit to the Daughters of the Nile Temple in Honolulu.

Mrs. Bessie Bayliss will join the Supreme Queen for the Seattle-Tacoma trip. She will then return to Victoria and with Mr. Bayliss will fly to Hawaii for a three-week visit at the same time as the Supreme Queen.

Burnside — Principal Wilfred Orchard will speak on report cards at next meeting of Burnside PTA to be held in the school auditorium next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Spring Theme of Shower

Daffodils and pussy willows presaged spring at the home of Mrs. Eric Dowell, Beaver Street, when she entertained recently in honor of Saturday bride-elect, Miss Sylvia Morrow. A miscellaneous shower of gifts was hidden in the drawing room and a corsage of daffodils and heather was presented to the honor guest. Daffodils and pussy willows in a silver bowl, yellow candles in silver holders and a yellow and white cloth repeated the decorative theme of the drawing room. A buffet-style supper was served and Mrs. C. B. Baker presided at the table. During the evening movies were shown. Invited guests were Mrs. F. Petrie, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mrs. A. Jackson, Mrs. G. MacDonald, Mrs. W. Stancil and the Misses J. McCuaig, M. Baker and B. Peatt.

Married in Vancouver

Mrs. Elsie M. Sanders is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Josephine O. Sanders to Mr. Peter S. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric S. Dixon of Elk Lake, B.C. The ceremony was performed in Vancouver in early November and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon have now come to Victoria to make their home.

Gifts in Airplane

Mrs. J. Olver and Mrs. D. S. Burt were co-hostesses at the Albany Road home of the latter recently with a personal shower in honor of Miss Evelyn Nielsen who is to be married in early March. Corsages were presented to the guest of honor, to her mother, Mrs. K. Nielsen, and to the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. Phillips. Gifts were arranged in a miniature decorated airplane and presented by the junior bride-elect, Miss Audrey Cole. Other guests were Mrs. R. W. McDonald, Mrs. F. Brown, Mrs. I. S. Burt, Mrs. J. Frith, Mrs. J. Donald, Mrs. W. Gilbert, Misses Ruth Hall, Bette Beatty and Elizabeth Nielsen.

Couple Wed at Brentwood

A ceremony at Brentwood Chapel, Brentwood Bay, recently, united in marriage, Mary Alice, daughter of Mr. Eilert Borge, Marchant Road, Brentwood, and Peter Kimoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Kimoff, North Battleford, Sask. Rev. Norman Lowe officiated and the chapel was decorated with white chrysanthemums and heather and sprigs of heather tied with white satin ribbons marking the pews. The bride, accompanied by her father, entered the church to strains of traditional wedding music.

Her ballerina length gown was of white lace and satin, and was styled with full skirt and small jacket. Her lace-edged chapel veil flared from a coronet of seed pearls and she wore a three-strand pearl necklace, lace mitts and carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses and carnations.

Mrs. Harvey Roth was her sister's matron of honor, wearing a ballerina gown of blue net and lace. A band of blue and white flowers formed her headdress and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Best man was Harvey Roth and usher was Carl Borge, brother of the bride.

Wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dignan. A wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centred the table and was flanked with tall candles in silver holders, and vases of heather and daffodils. Carl Borge proposed the toast to the bride.

Departing for a honeymoon up-Island and on the mainland, Mrs. Kimoff donned a deep blue velvet dress, a coat and hat of yellow, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Armored Car Strike Profitable to Thugs

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A money bag containing $27,000 in Bank of America cash was stolen today from one of the private automobiles being used in place of strike-stilled armored cars.

It was the first such incident since 80 drivers for the Loomis and Brinks armored car servces walked out Tuesday morning, forcing banks and business firms here and in Oakland, Calif., to smuggle large sums of money through the streets in cars, station wagons and trucks.

Bank tellers George Alexander and John Shennan drove up before a Bank of America branch in Oakland with the money in their station wagon early Wednesday morning.

They told police they noticed two "suspicious looking" men standing nearby so decided to have a cup of coffee before unloading the cash. They locked the car and went into a restaurant.

When they came out, they said, the two men were running from the car, one carrying the bank bag under his arm. The messengers said they gave chase but lost the thiefs.

Police said the wing window of the station dagon had been forced with a screw driver.

The armored car drivers, newly organized by the retail delivery drivers' union, struck suddenly Tuesday to back demands for a 25-cent hourly pay increase. They currently get $1.70 to $1.90 per hour.

Company spokesmen said the strike might last "a long time" since the two parties were far apart in negotiations. The companies offered a 2½-cent increase.

Brinks and Loomis move an estimated $50,000,000 a day in the San Francisco Bay area.

Nervous bank officials and businessmen flooded police headquarters with requests for guards while moving their cash.

New Justice Committee Reports To Council Soon

City council's new committee on administration of justice likely will deliver its first report to council a week from today.

A meeting was held Wednesday, first since the mayor set up the committee in early January. "We are not going to interfere with magistrate's or judges. The commission won't concern itself with anything that comes under the police commission," said Ald. Millard Mooney, chairman.

The mayor urged formation of the committee last fall after criticizing Magistrate H. C. Hall over handling of Juvenile Court.

Hospitals Snap Up Butter at Cut Rate

Government to Start Sales Next Week As Hundreds of Institutions Respond

OTTAWA (CP)—Hundreds of hospitals and charitable institutions have replied favoring the government's proposal to enable them to buy butter at cost rates and the sales plan will start operating next week, federal officials said Wednesday.

Under the surplus-disposal plans some 1,500 institutions such as hospitals and orphanages will get butter through regular supply channels at a price 21 cents a pound lower than they normally pay.

The government will make up the price difference to the suppliers either in cash or butter replacement stocks from the 70,000,000 pounds held by the agricultural prices support board. The loss through the price cut will be charged against the federal treasury and the Canadian taxpayer.

The board, Jan. 28, sent invitations Friday to participate in the price-cut plan and officials said they have received "bushels of replies—all favorable."

Some institutions said the price reduction will allow them to use more butter and less margarine. Others complained of high food costs straining their budgets and said the lower price will bring some financial relief.

Ecsedy, Powerful Technician, Heard With Schubert Club

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Aladar Ecsedy, a youthful Hungarian pianist, now living and teaching in Vancouver, was the guest artist presented Wednesday night by the Schubert Club ladies' choir in a concert at Victoria High School.

Ecsedy produced a powerful, if not always beautiful tone, and swept through complexities of the Bach Toccata and Fugue—a touch over-pedaled—and the ferociously difficult Mephisto Valse of Liszt, with triumphant ease.

His program was entirely chosen from the virtuoso's repertoire, so he gave only the minimum chance of assessing his deeper musicianly qualities. That he has temperament was clear in his treatment of the Chopin Scherzo in B Minor.

Schubert ladies' choir sang two groups, directed by Vera Barclay and accompanied by James Saunders.

A particularly delightful and clever piece of choral singing was achieved in the complicated part writing of Weelkes' "The Nightingale." Blend and balance of voices is good and the choir's mature musical attainment is particularly noticeable in the immediate establishment of a mood.

Mrs. Barclay, accompanied by Mr. Saunders, sang the aria, "Pace Pace, Mio Dio" from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino." So rich a dramatic soprano, warm, wide in range, and smooth in production should certainly be heard more frequently.

TWO for the SHOW

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) (B For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE VANISHING PRAIRIE" (Capitol)—It is impossible, in this column's estimation, to award a Walt Disney nature study film of such feature-length scope as this anything less than full marks. For, like his last year's Academy Award winning effort, "The Living Desert," this one borders upon the miraculous too.

True, "The Vanishing Prairie" is not as spectacular as the amazing desert opus nor is it as humor filled. But it carries the same broad Disney sweep and its carefully chronicled details in the same enchanting color photography that remains the Disney trademark.

OF COURSE THERE ARE no humans in this picture, only very human animals, birds and reptiles. The picture starts out much like the prairies began eons ago, untrampled, unspaded, wind and snow-swept, burned by the summer sun, wrought by the hand of God.

Then, caught in the skilled lens of cameramen Tom McHugh, James R. Simon, N. Paul Kenworthy, Cleveland P. Grant, Lloyd Beebe, Herb Chrisler, Dick Borden, Warren Garst, Murl Deusing, Olin Sewalt Pettingill and Stuart V. Jewell life begins to make its Genesis-like appearance. There are the funny ducks coming in for routine landings on the prairie ponds only to discover, too late, they are frozen over. As the film unwinds one meets the great buffalo that used to blacken the plains, the doughty little prairie dog, the agile pronghorn antelope, the graceful mountain lion or cougar and her cubs, the gravity-defying bighorn sheep, the vicious rattler, the storied coyote and the beautiful whooping crane that is all but extinct.

BUT IT IS THE MANNER in which one meets each of the prairie creatures that makes "The Vanishing Prairie" such a classic, a picture that surely teaches one more about the subject than all the libraries combined. For instance, there are the underground shots of the prairie dogs at home; the unforgettable sight of the birth of a buffalo; the fight of the great bull buffaloes; the sound of battle as the bighorns charge one another with the speed of express trains; the cougar bounding in for the kill and the fight to the death between a coyote and a rattlesnake. Then there are also memorable scenes of nature on the rampage . . . the line storm, the flood and the frightening speed of a grass fire.

This is a picture for all, especially the young who are old enough to appreciate the miracle of nature and the limitations of man. It is the picture for professor and teacher and all those who would learn.

CANADIAN-BORN ACTOR Lorne Greene will star in "Julius Caesar" and the "Merchant of Venice" this summer during the third annual Shakespearian Festival at Stratford, Ont. The festival will also revive last season's Oedipus Rex. Import for this season will be Czechoslovakian actor Fredrick Valk, who will play Shylock in the "Merchant" with Francis Hyland playing Portia and Greene the Prince of Morocco.

Movies for Children

The following table of classifications has been prepared by the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council. Victoria theatre managers have co-operated. It covers the current films at local theatres, but it does not list films classified as adult only. The assessments are based mainly on reports in Parents' Magazine (U.S.) and the Monthly Bulletin of the British Film Institute.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

Don't ask me to recommend the bidding in today's hand. North and South had three chances to stop at a reasonable part-score contract, but they pushed on to an unreasonable game contract.

If South learned a lesson from all this it was probably a bad one, for he managed to make his unreasonable game contract.

Let's discuss the bidding first. North had a sound opening bid and a sound raise to two spades. These two bids showed a count of 13 to 16 points, including distribution as well as high cards.

South had only nine points, with no distributional strength. It was easy for him to see that the combined strength was 25 points at most. Hence South should have passed at two spades.

When South actually bid two no-trump, North might have passed. And when North actually bid three spades, South should have passed. North would have bid four spades instead of only three if he had his maximum value of about 16 points.

West opened a trump against the actual contract of four spades, and South saw that he was apparently doomed to lose three hearts and at least one club.

He considered finessing dummy's jack of diamonds in order to discard a heart from dummy on the ace of diamonds, but decided against too many finesses. Instead, he won the first spade in his own hand and immediately returned a low club.

West hopped up with the ace of clubs and led another trump. This was part of South's reason for not touching the diamonds. The opponents might not see how vital it was for them to switch to hearts, and then South would need only a bit of luck in clubs to make his contract.

South won the second trump, cashed the top diamonds, ruffed a diamond with dummy's ace of trumps, and drew two more rounds of trumps, discarding a heart from dummy on the last trump. He then led the 10 of clubs and let it ride for a finesse. Another club finesse brought in the game contract and proved that it pays to overbid if the opponents defend badly.

STEWART & HUDSON LTD.
Handy Home Builders' Service

Now Is the Time

For doing all those inside jobs—lining basement or attic—fixing up a spare room, a den—enclosing a porch and many other necessary jobs. At Stewart & Hudson you will find all the wallboards you require in both size, selection and price. You do those jobs now and pay later on easy monthly payments under our beneficial credit plan. Even if there is a mortgage on your home you are still eligible to participate in our budget plan. Enquire today.

Victoria's Plywood Centre

Truly the most assorted stock of plywoods and plywood cuttings at prices that are so reasonable. Check on these prices and sizes—note the large panels that are nearly full size and yet selling for 25% and more less. It will pay you to visit our yard.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By BILL PARKER

Between 50 and 60 radio and teevee men arrived in town today to attend a two-day conference of the B.C. Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

They'll discuss the industry while here and draw up a few resolutions concerning their association.

I see where the new North Vancouver radio station has applied for permission to go on the air at 500 watts instead of 1,000 watts on a temporary basis.

Apparently there are a few more bugs in the equipment than were contemplated.

There's a fellow working at CKNW in New Westminster whom I know by sight, but have never met.

His name, I've always thought, is Michael Bruce.

But recently I found out that although he answers to that, his full name includes a "Sir."

Sir Michael Bruce, who is 'NW's public relations director, is brother of the late film actor, Nigel Bruce . . . looks like him, too.

He has written his autobiography, recently published by the Ryerson Press, and will discuss it on CBU at 10.15 tonight.

Title of the book, and the radio talk, is "Tramp Royal."

Take a peek at CBUT's presentation of Concert Hour at 8.30 this evening.

The Russian ballerina, Alexandra Danilova, will pirouette for the cameras.

Randolph Scott and Binnie Barnes will co-star in "Last of the Mohicans" on Curtain Time over KOMO-TV at 11 tonight. That's a really old classic revived once more.

For the screen you love to watch . . . to paraphrase a well-known commercial . . . Pond's Theatre will carry a tale called "Thirty, Honey, Thirty!" on KING-TV at 6.30 this evening.

Hedy Lamarr comes to the Channel 5 Playhouse screen at 11 this evening in a play called "Dishonored Lady."

Comedy tonight on Four Star Playhouse (KTNT-TV, 9.30 p.m.).

Joan Dru takes the spotlight in "A Kiss For Mr. Lincoln."

The Late Show on channel 11 will feature "Eye-Witness" with Bob Montgomery and Leslie Banks at 10.45 tonight.

HIGHLIGHTS FOR TONIGHT

ON CBU:
Tramp Royal at 10.15.

ON CBUT:
Concert Hour at 8.30.
Eddie Cantor at 11.

ON KOMO-TV:
Lux Theatre at 10.
Curtain Time at 11.

ON KING-TV:
Pond's Theatre at 6.30.
Florian Zabach at 9.30.
Channel 5 Playhouse at 11.

ON KTNT-TV:
Climax at 8.30.
Four Star Playhouse at 9.30.
Frankie Laine at 10.
The Late Show at 10.45.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1955

ARIES (Birthdays from March 21 to April 19)—Avoid fight at home by getting out at worldly tasks early; later you find members of your household more in accordance with your innate aims, can get their support on money, investments.

TAURUS (Birthdays from April 20 to May 20)—Be very careful of accidents on highway during a.m. You find by using care, some firm friend or powerful partner releases favors, benefits that bring you new sense of peace, understanding.

GEMINI (Birthdays from May 21 to June 21)—Your financial affairs are under close scrutiny by one in authority who can early take away from your success in material matters until you do your job well, all day and all evening.

CANCER (Birthdays from June 22 to July 21)—Being in any way careless in performance of civic duties lessens your prestige, ability to get ahead greatly; be sure you watch credit during daytime. P.M. finds you under splendid aspects for fun, amusement.

LEO (Birthdays from July 22 to Aug. 21)—Worry about not getting to new fascinations as quickly as you would like postpones them even further, so make sure you show your patience. Then p.m., home is gratifying place to be for true happiness.

VIRGO (Birthdays from Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Trying to harmonize your wants with your current assets can bring some confusion early, but by maintaining steady pace of intent thoughtfulness you find you can win approval of all associates, kin in cherished aims.

LIBRA (Birthdays from Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Now you should steer clear early of that discussion which threatens to become unpleasant about you. P.M. then brings change to arrange material interests more sensibly.

SCORPIO (Birthdays from Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Try to be especially careful with apparel, food, car, furnishings or some damage results. P.M. then finds you able to get out into realm of advanced thought, better ideas, clearer perspectives.

SAGITTARIUS (Birthdays from Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Desire for pleasure seems to keep you mentally buzzing, but you'd better be careful not to spend more than you can afford, or you lose out in all directions. P.M. carefully analyze current conditions. Then improve.

CAPRICORN (Birthdays from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Argument at home early over some outside personality just plain foolishness. Instead use all that wonderful vitality (mental in nature) to get support from old friends, to achieve big aims.

AQUARIUS (Birthdays from Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Have you tried to so attend your job that all companions—business and personal—will have keen realization of what you are trying to do? If not, this is excellent day for just this. P.M. show officials your cleverness.

PISCES (Birthdays from Feb. 20 to March 20)—Daytime finds you pretty harrassed about money, property interests, but refuse to take chance and all's well. P.M. finds you with sudden pleasure you'd be wise to accept. Forget woes, have fun tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

Friday's child is one of those very forceful youngsters who will certainly want his or her way far more in early years than is good: It is wise that you early channel all this wonderful vitality in constructive directions, for in later years there will be present a wonderful sense of "timing," tact and diplomacy. Courses in engineering, designing and all allied interests would be good outlets for your very talented progeny.

Good Luck Has Played Its Part

The big news of American politics is that he has escaped them—partly by good management, partly by good luck.

The first great test of Eisenhower as a historic figure came suddenly last spring when he, and he alone, had to decide whether the United States would fight in Indo-China, with the risk of provoking world war, and with the certainty of disrupting the grand alliance. Alone he decided not to fight. The great soldier had become the most ardent peace leader in the world.

But what the public has yet to understand is that the President also had learned — in a curious, unreasoning and instinctive fashion—to interpret the mind of his people better than the professionals.

Many of them were misled, and are still misled by the articulate minority, under Senator Knowland, who are prepared to risk atomic war, if need be, to hold a certain strategic line of their own selection. The President sensed the fundamental and dominating fact of his nation—that it wants peace, will never agree to preventive war and will avoid even a peripheral war like Korea, if that is possible. On that estimate of public opinion he decided to base his future.

The estimate, though many professionals doubted it, proved correct. The President was able to absorb the massive defeat of Indo-China without losing a fraction of his power in the nation. In the last few weeks he has been able to launch and, barring another mad communist adventure, will carry through a disengagement of power on the coast of China.

A year ago all this would have appeared unthinkable in American politics. It has succeeded for a single human reason—this man has discovered his own power, has ceased to lean on the professionals and is thinking for himself.

No one will say that he is a genius like Roosevelt, Wilson or Lincoln. But he has some of the calm commonsense, the courage and the dogged patience of Washington. At any rate he holds among his people a power an affection which even Roosevelt never enjoyed.

The second factor in re-building the threatened career of the President was mostly accidental—Senator McCarthy elected to commit political suicide.

Played Skilful Waiting Game

It is easy in retrospect for Mr. Eisenhower's apologists to say that he planned it all this way, that he gave McCarthy enough rope to hang himself and played a skilful waiting game.

The truth is that the President bungled the McCarthy affair from the first days of the 1952 campaign when he reluctantly endorsed the Wisconsin senator in his home state, and regretted it ever afterwards. Fortunately for Mr. Eisenhower, the nation and the world, McCarthy solved the McCarthy problem himself by grasping for too much and losing everything.

Thus the President and the body politic were together freed of the maddening McCarthy thorn, and only just in time. Simultaneously, by his own positive action, the President completely revised his foreign policy and actually reverted to the basic policy of his predecessor without losing his curious hold on the voters at large.

It is not true, of course, that he has closed the organic schism of the Republican party; probably no man could have closed it in the last two years, if indeed it is ever to be closed. He has not been able to put all of his own domestic policy, especially his trade policy, through the Congress. He still depends utterly on the Democrats of the opposition to support his main objectives.

But when all this is admitted, the fact remains that he has somehow extricated himself from his own early illusions, has emerged a sadder and a wiser man from last year's failures and today towers above the whole Congress and any possible competitor for the presidency in 1956.

Has Learned From His Mistakes

He has likewise begun to learn at last, mostly from his mistakes, the art of politics, the essential art of the presidency in the American system.

This was proved only a few days ago when he executed his brilliant manoeuvre in the Formosa crisis by asking the Congress for an absolutely free hand to defend what he thought essential off the coast of China.

For quite apart from the international implications of the almost unanimous approval by the Congress, the president completely hooked the Democrats, as he intended. They had to vote with him. By their vote they deliberately lost the chance to blame him for anything that may happen in Asia. This was a stroke of politics on the grand scale which Roosevelt might have envied.

Thus, as the Democrats know quite well, Mr. Eisenhower bestrides the nation like a colossus, can certainly win the presidency again, barring some sudden accident and will almost inevitably have to run two years hence.

This unprecedented revival of a career apparently dwindling after a brief morning glory has been achieved not by sublety, not by planning and organization, but intuitively by the character of the man himself, the man who has managed, no one knows quite how, to make himself the image of his people and, at the same time, to revive the lost confidence of all his foreign friends.

Labor Wants Pension Age Cut 5 Years

Recommendation that the pension age be lowered to 65 without a means test will be made to government authorities by Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, members decided Wednesday night.

Layoffs of 65-year-old employees at HMC Dockyard, leaving men with no means of livelihood, prompted the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' local of V and DTLC to make the recommendation.

Electricians' business agent Charles Peck pointed out that the men laid off were hourly-wage employees and so were not eligible for retirement scheme.

"Many of these men are quite capable of carrying on with the job, but when they (the government) lay men off with no means of support, we think it is a horrible thing.

"Men should be kept on until the government lowers the pensionable age to 65 without a means test," he said.

J. A. Driscoll said: "We do want to see retirement at the lowest possible age, but there is no reason to see these men thrown on the scrap heap without means of support."

MLAs Criticize Cut in Feed Grain Subsidy

Members of the B.C. Legislature Wednesday criticized the federal government for withdrawal of half its subsidy paid on feed-grain shipments from prairie points.

Debating a resolution "deploring the federal action," Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan said federal policy was "inconsistent with the needs of agriculture in this province.

"In one slice, they find it necessary to shear off about $1,000,000 a year off agriculture in this province," said Mr. Kiernan.

CCF leader Arnold Webster, who promised his party's support for the resolution, said "a raw deal has been done the West."

The feed-grains subsidy, which formerly paid entire freight costs on feeds between Edmonton and other western points and B.C., was cut by $5 a ton last Friday.

Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt) said the action would be a serious blow to many turkey producers in his riding. "The markets are flooded with outside turkeys now," he said.

"Many turkey producers in my area feel that with this added burden, they will be unable to continue," he said.

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, who failed in an attempt to have the House discuss the federal action Monday, informed the House he sent a wire to federal Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner, shortly after the subsidy reduction was announced.

"What is the sense of deploring?" he asked. "I want to ask the minister what he has done since this was announced last Friday?"

"Apparently the federal government is retreating from a policy of subsidies,' he said. "And Social Credit is opposed to subsidies. The minister told us in this House that the milk industry "is not going to have any umbrellas over it. . ."

"Deploring won't do any good, I am going to propose an amendment to this motion, to add to it 'and (this Legislature) urges the federal minister to spread the reduction over the next two years'."

A vote on the amendment was delayed by adjournment of the House.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today refused to postpone the effective date of a $1,500,000-a-year cut in subsidies on prairie feed grain moving to Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said it is impossible to delay the Feb. 1 effective date of the cut because delay would open too many ways of taking advantage of the new regulations. He did not elaborate.

He replied in the Commons to Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops) who requested a postponement to allow cattle men in the B.C. interior to stock up on feed grain for the winter.

Mr. Gardiner said such announcements on subsidies are like those on tariff changes. They had to become effective at or near the time of the announcements.

Bus Driver Freed On Careless Driving Charge

Careless driving charge against BCE bus driver Gordon D. Currie, 730 Maddison, was dismissed Wednesday in city police court by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Charge arose when a bus driven by Currie struck a woman pedestrian Sept. 7, 1954, on Fort Street between Douglas and Blanshard.

Magistrate Hall said he was satisfied the bus was moving at a slow speed and that the driver stopped quickly when the woman stepped out from in front of a van stopped in a no-parking area.

Defense counsel was Lloyd McKenzie.

'UP AND AWAY'

U.S. Unveils Swivel Jets

Engines Swing in New VTO; Plane Industry 'Revolution'

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The Bell Aircraft Corp. today unveiled a jet-powered vertical takeoff and landing aircraft which its executive feels could revolutionize military aviation as well as some forms of the air transport industry.

Obsolete?

Bell Aircraft Corporation's new horizontal takeoff plane might easily outdate Convair's famous pogo craft, seen above, which takes off vertically from its tail and then levels off after becoming airborne.

Lawrence D. Bell, president of the company, called the plane "the most significant single development in aircraft flight since the Wright brothers' first airplane."

This is in contrast to the recently-developed Convair "pogo plane" which mounts wheels on its tail, rises vertically and straightens out for level flight. The new Bell VTO rises horizontally and the engines are swung over for level flight when proper altitude is reached.

The plane is powered by two jet engines mounted on an axle at each side of the body. The engines can be turned from a vertical position for takeoffs and landings to a horizontal position for level flight.

In addition, the craft is equipped with a compressed air system that ejects air streams at the wing tips and tail, thus giving the pilot control of the plane during landings an dtakeoffs. Bell engineers say that as far they know this is the first practical application of such "reaction ocntrols."

During level flight, standard aircraft controls are used.

HAS NO WHEELS

The plane, successfully flown more than 20 times by Bell test pilots, is a queer-looking contraption but an obvious topwing monoplane. It has no wheels—it doesn't need them. It has a glider body with an open cockpit, is 21 feet long and has a wing span of 26 feet.

The obvious military value is that such a plane can operate in the field without runways like a helicopter. But unlike a helicopter, its speed is not limited to less than 200 miles an hour.

Farmers Win Promise

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP) — British Columbia farmers, angry over the cut in the federal coarse grain subsidy, were assured by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair that he will take up the matter with Agriculture Minister James Gardiner at Ottawa.

USSR Increases Arms Budget 12%

Consumer Goods Program Junked In Favor of Industrial Products

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia today ordered a 12 per cent boost in her arms budget and publicly announced the scrapping of the short-lived consumer goods program in favor of more heavy industrial production.

1. Finance Minister Arseni G. Zverev told the opening session of the Supreme Soviet that Russia will spend 112,110,000,000 rubles (nominally $28,250,000,000) for arms this year. That's an 11,800,000,000 ruble (nominally $2,950,000,000) jump over the arms budget for 1954.

2. Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev officially ordered an end to the post-Stalin effort to produce consumer goods in greater quantity and declared that production of heavy goods is the source of Soviet strength.

(Diplomatic sources in London and Washington speculated that the Russian economic turn about and the new emphasis on arms production may be Russia's answer to the Western European Union and the west's program for rearming West Germany.)

Margaret Tour Damp But Cheery

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UP)—Raindrops fell on Princess Margaret today as she took a state drive around the capital in an open car. She was cheered by thousands of damp but loyal Trinidadians.

But the onlookers complained that the car was going too fast and they hadn't had time for a good look at the Princess.

For the occasion, she wore a pink silk dress printed in a grey and white design with a moulded waistline and full flare skirt. She wore a grey straw hat trimmed with a pink rose. Her shoes and handbag were both gunmetal grey.

At a noon reception, the Princess met more than 120 newsmen at a press conference arranged at her own request.

A state banquet is scheduled at Government House tonight.

PREMIER BRINGS BUDGET DOWN IN HOUSE FRIDAY

Friday is budget day in British Columbia.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, as minister of finance, will present to the legislature his government's spending plans for the next 12-month period.

The budget will disclose the new school finance formula, which will affect every property owner in the province. No tax changes are anticipated.

Tax-Lost Home Blamed on Bonner

Attorney-General Accused of Delay In Issuing Fiat for Court Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner was accused here today of delaying action which would have saved a Westview, B.C. woman from losing her $3,000 home in a tax sale.

Graham Ladner, representing Mrs. Mary Booth, said the attorney-general had a month in which to take action but he moved a day too late.

Mr. Ladner said he had made application Aug. 18 to Mr. Bonner for a fiat to sue the provincial government. The period in which a fiat could be approved expired Sept. 16, 1954.

"He had it for a month," Mr. Ladner said. "Then, on Sept. 17—one day too late—he brought the matter before the Lieutenant-Governor and said no action could be taken because the time limit had expired.

"This seems to me to be something worse than a plain omission on his part."

RENOVATED HOME

Mrs. Booth had spent more than $1,600 renovating her home without knowing it had been sold to a Powell River real estate operator for $30.60 after she had failed to pay a $16.83 school tax.

Tony Gargrave, CCF member for Mackenzie, brought the story to light in the Legislature Tuesday when he charged proper methods had not been made to reach Mrs. Booth to notify her of the impending sale.

"It's very hard," Mrs. Booth said Wednesday. "I had planned to go back there to live in my old age. I'm 66 now.

"I still owe a part of the money I borrowed to fix up the house. I guess I was doing it for someone else."

Lions Sign Two More

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The British Columbia Lions football club today announced the signing of import quarterback Tom Kessenich and lineman Lauri Niemi.

Kassenich, who will be released from the United States Air Force in June, played football at a Reno, Nev., prep school but never attended a college. Niemi, a 250-pound tackle, was one of the Lions' imports last year.

Demands Right To Brand U.S. As 'Aggressor'

LONDON (UP)—Red China refused today to send a representative to a United Nations security council debate on a New Zealand plan for a Formosan cease-fire.

It warned that "all decisions" taken by the council without a Red China representative present "would be illegal and null and void."

The Communist reply to UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold's invitation to attend the debate was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

It said Communist China "fully supports" the Soviet Union's proposal branding the United States an aggressor against China but is "firmly opposed" to the New Zealand proposal.

The reply said that Red Shina could send a representative to discuss the Russion proposal alone but would do so only when the Nationalist Chinese delegate on the UN security council has been "driven out."

Calls for Complete U.S. Withdrawal

The soviet proposal also would demand withdrawal of all American and Chinese nationalist forces from Formosa and other Nationalist-held off-shore islands. Generalissimo Chiang Kaishek and other non-Communist spokesmen have described the Soviet resolution as a demand for complete surrender."

The reply said that Red China is of the "firm opinion that the United Nations security council should condemn the United States for its acts of aggression against Shina and call upon the Pnited States to stop immediately its aggressions against China and intervention in China's internal affairs and to withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan (Formosa) and the Taiwan Straits."

The message said that "the United States aggression against China's territory of Taiwan has all along been the source of tension in the Far East."

If attacked the New Zealand proposal which called for consideration of the "hostilities in the area of certain islands off the coast of the mainland of China."

The New Zealand proposal, it said, "obviously is to intervene in China's internal affairs and to cover up the acts of aggression by the United States against China, and is therefore in direct violation of the fundamental principles of the United Nations charter."

'Intolerable Slanders' Charged

The message berated the United Nations for its failure to take up Red charges of aggression against the United States and said that the U.N. "repeatedly slandered the Peoples Republic of China."

"What is especially intolerable," the message said, "is the fatc that the Peoples Republic of China, representing the 600,000,000 Chinese people, is up to now still deprived of its legitimate position and rights in the United Nations, while representatives of a small handful of remnants of the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique, repudiated long ago by the Chinese Peoples Republic, continue to usurp the position of representing China in the United Nations."

Nehru Spotlights New Peace Drive

(Compiled from UP Dispatches)

The United States today contacted India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru for details of his "side-street" efforts to find a way—outside the United Nations—to end the Formosan shooting.

U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich talked for 30 minutes with the Indian prime minister at the "Millionaires Row" residence where two days ago Nehru conferred with Red China's charge d'affaires in Britain.

High Indians said the two discussed the Formosan crisis. Non-committal U.S. sources insisted the meeting was "only a courtesy call."

But the conviction was growing in United Nations at New York that the best hope for a Formosan settlement now rests with Nehru's plan for "Geneva-type" conference of principals.

And there was no doubt the United States was vitally interested in Nehru's moves.

Washington diplomats are convinced that Russia is seriously worried by the dangers of war erupting in the Far East. They believe that the Soviets might be willing to enter into some stop-gap formula — short of a formal cease-fire—to ease the tension in the Formosan Strait and permit tempers to cool.

These factors might create a favorable atmosphere for Nehru's mediation efforts.

Reds Mass in Defiance of U.S. 7th Fleet

The emphasis was on speed, for the Communists were reported to have massed "many" ships near Yikiangshan Island in apparent defiance of the U.S. 7th Fleet which is committed to cover the Nationalist evacuation of the Tachens, barely eight miles away.

Nationalist sources said Chiang planes flew through increasingly heavy anti-aircraft fire to attack the Red ships. Two Communist ships were reported destroyed.

There were increasing signs the evacuation of Tachen was imminent.

Informed sources in Taipei said the United States and Nationalist China had reached agreement on evacuation of the Tachens under cover of the U.S. 7th Fleet and that an announcement could be expected within 48 hours.

HUTCHISON FROM WASHINGTON

Eisenhower Escapes From Political Mess

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WASHINGTON—During the last year the political prospects, the power and the mind of President Eisenhower have been completely changed by one of the great success stories of our times. Only his character has not changed and that remains as the basis of his unique place in American life.

A year ago, when this reporter was last in Washington, the President faced an agonizing dilemma and, it almost seemed, a disastrous failure as a national and international leader.

In international affairs he had not yet escaped the innocent enchantment of a foreign policy certain to fail and already causing grave strains in the free world alliance — the policy, in brief, of "liberating" Communist satellities, rolling back the Iron Curtain, "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek and generally repealing the "containment" policy of the Truman government.

Hutchison

If he had privately realized that the election cries of 1952 were irrelevant and dangerous, but had yet to abandon them, he found himself suddenly dragged into a totally unforeseen French defeat in Indo-China. The world of a year ago seemed to be rolling inexorably toward a great Asiatnc war, perhaps a world war.

In domestic affairs the president had lurched by a long series of blunders and by the worst kind of professional advice into the nauseous McCarthy mess.

He did not dare to repudiate a man who obviously was not striking mainly at American communists but at the American presidency. Tight-lipped and apparently helpless, he watched the Republican Party use McCarthy as its leading platform personality, even as its Lincoln birthday orator, with a speech called "Twenty Years of (Democratic) Treason." McCarthy, in fact, was taking the Republican Party away from its leader.

EXCLUSIVE to the TIMES

It was true to say a year ago that, at the current momentum, the tide in the affairs of the president was carrying him inexorably toward shallows and miseries which he could never hope to escape.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Tenders were called today for the first 20 miles of the northern extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway from Prince George. Bids are returnable March 10.

Notts County Wins

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Nottingham County defeated Sheffield Wednesday 1-0 today in a replay of their fourth-round match of the Football Association Cup competition.

PMs Talk Convertibility

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth prime ministers turned today from international affairs to a review of economic and trade matters as their conference swung into its fourth day.

Prime Minister St. Laurent briefly reviewed Canada's position. The chief speakers were R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, and Peter Thorneycroft, president of the board of trade.

Informants said Butler's report would deal with the prospect of liberalizing trade. They expected him to examine the problem of making the pound sterling convertible into other currencies without setting any timetable.

ON BRINK OF DEFEAT

Mendes-France Loses Support of Mayer

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government was in grave danger tonight.

Radical Socialist Rene Mayer told Mendes-France, a fellow party member, that he would vote against him in the present debate on the premier's North African policy.

Not Resigning

CCF national leader M. J. Coldwell said today he has "no intention of resigning" because of a party split on German rearmament in last week's vote in Commons. The resignation report grew from a CCF caucus action voting confidence in Coldwell's leadership. In the Germans arms vote Coldwell and four others voted with the government, against the declared policy of the last CCF convention and a pre-debate meeting of the party's national committee. Twelve of the 24 CCF MPs opposed ratification. Six abstained and the other was absent.

Mayer's decision probably means the crumbling of Mendes-France's majority in the Nationalist Assembly and the downfall of his government.

Mayer spoke to a hushed assembly at the start of the second day of debate on North Africa. He was applauded frequently by what appeared to be more than half of the approximately 350 deputies present.

Mayer, in the dramatic conclusion of his hour-long speech, addressed the premier directly and said: "On the past you have often asked for a renewal of confidence. In this case I cannot renew mine."

PREMIER TO REPLY

After the critics exhausted their ammunition, Mendes-France was to take the floor with his defense.

The premier was expected to call for a confidence vote sometime before midnight, requiring him to resign if he loses. Under French legislative procedure calling for the lapse of a full calendar day before the ballot, the vote should come early Saturday.

The government was accused on Wednesday both of going too far and not going far enough in offering greater self-government to the North Africans.

Several Communist deputies charged the government had done too little. But other speakers, chiefly from the extreme right, insisted that the trouble in Algernia had been fomented only after the government showed weakness in France's protectorate of Tunisia.

Famous Golden Goose Letters Were Not Marked Confidential

The "goose that laid the golden egg" controversy grew more complicated today when Premier Bennett made public two letters involved in the issue.

The letters, one from timber baron H. R. MacMillan, and the other from the assistant publisher of the Vancouver Sun, were written to the premier after B.C. newspapers carried reports that Mr. MacMillan charged the Social Credit government with "killing the goose that laid the golden egg" through high taxes on the forest industry.

Wednesday, Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson demanded the letters be tabled in the House to determine whether they were marked private and confidential.

ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION

The Vancouver Sun, in a news story, said the letter written by Sam Cromie was a "personal and confidential letter," sent to the premier to explain how the descriptive phrase by a staff writer was wrongly attributed to Mr. MacMillan in the CP wire service report.

Premier Bennett showed members of the Press Gallery both letters today. They were not marked private and confidential.

Premier Bennett was asked what the status was of a letter sent to him, and whether any letter could be made public. "I am dealing with these two letters," he said.

The controversy already existed in the press about certain matters. I felt they were public property because of the controversy, and so felt free to release them," he said.

He said: "I am not dealing with the status of any other letters coming to me," and that he used the letters, which were read in the Legislature last Friday by Lands Minister R. E. Sommers, to counteract "the erroneous impression that went abroad."

ONE PARAGRAPH

The premier added that he was only dealing with one paragraph of the "goose" reports, the one in which Mr. MacMillan was quoted as saying the provincial government was killing the forestry goose with high taxes.

Mr. MacMillan's annual report specifically mentioned four provincial taxes levied by the Social Credit government as being an added burden on the timber industry, and said the forest industry was more heavily taxed in B.C. than in any other province.

Premier Bennett would not comment on the apparent reversal of Mr. MacMillan's stand in his letter to the premier. In that letter, he said federal, not provincial, taxation was to blame.

A forest management license application by a MacMillan firm is now before the government, and opposition MLA's have made veiled charges that the premier put "pressure" on the timber baron to write the letter.

"This letter was unsolicited, and came as a complete surprise," the premier said. He said he hadn't talked with Mr. MacMillan.

Leading U.S. Jockey Suspended

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Ray Broussard, the nation's leading jockey, has been suspended for 10 days because of rough riding, the Fair Grounds board of stewards said today.

It was the initial major setback for the sensational jockey from Abbeville, La., who had 48 victories for the year before today's Fair Grounds meeting.

Canadian Football 'Czar' Suggested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Canadian professional football teams should get together and select a league commissioner or face the prospects of serious trouble, George Trafton, former coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said today.

Trafton, now in the real estate business after leaving Winnipeg in 1953, recommended Ted Reeve, a Toronto sports columnist, as "a fine man to take charge as commissioner."

CBC Technicians Vote to Strike

MONTREAL (BUP)—Canadian Broadcasting Corporation radio and television technicians have voted decisively in favor of a strike to back up wage demands, it was announced today.

The National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CIO-CCL) said 83.5 per cent of those taking part in the nation-wide vote were in favor of a strike

A total of 742 of the 775 union members voted. The union said 674 voted for a strike and 43 voted against such action.

Claud Duparc, Montreal representative of the union said the strike would not take place before February 16.

Egypt Ready to Quit Arab League

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egypt was reported ready to withdraw from the Arab League collective security treaty organization today because of Iraq's defense agreement with Turkey.

Reliable sources said Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser felt he had no alternative but to announce withdrawal at tonight's meeting of the Arab League premiers if Iraq insists on going through with the defense treaty.

Czechs End War With Germany

VIENNA Austria (UP)—Communist Czechoslavakia—following Russia's lead—today officially ended the state of war with Germany. The announcement was broadcast by Communist Prague radio.

The Kremlin announced on January 25 that it was ending nearly 14 years of official war with Germany and said "peaceful relations are being established" with both East and West Germany.

U.S. Unveils Swivel Jets

Engines Swing in New VTO; Plane Industry 'Revolution'

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The Bell Aircraft Corp. today unveiled a jet-powered vertical takeoff and landing aircraft which its executive feels could revolutionize military aviation as well as some forms of the air transport industry.

Lawrence D. Bell, president of the company, called the plane "the most significant single development in aircraft flight since the Wright brothers' first airplane."

This is in contrast to the recently-developed Convair "pogo plane" which mounts wheels on its tail, rises vertically and straightens out for level flight. The new Bell VTO rises horizontally and the engines are swung over for level flight when proper altitude is reached.

The plane is powered by two jet engines mounted on an axle at each side of the body. The engines can be turned from a vertical position for takeoffs and landings to a horizontal position for level flight.

In addition, the craft is equipped with a compressed air system that ejects air streams at the wing tips and tail, thus giving the pilot control of the plane during landings and takeoffs. Bell engineers say that as far they know this is the first practical application of such "reaction controls."

During level flight, standard aircraft controls are used.

HAS NO WHEELS

The plane, successfully flown more than 20 times by Bell test pilots, is a queer-looking contraption but an obvious topwing monoplane. It has no wheels—it doesn't need them. It has a glider body with an open cockpit, is 21 feet long and has a wing span of 26 feet.

The obvious military value is that such a plane can operate in the field without runways like a helicopter. But unlike a helicopter, its speed is not limited to less than 200 miles an hour.

Margaret Tour Damp But Cheery

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UP)—Raindrops fell on Princess Margaret today as she took a state drive around the capital in an open car. She was cheered by thousands of damp but loyal Trinidadians.

But the onlookers complained that the car was going too fast and they hadn't had time for a good look at the Princess.

For the occasion, she wore a pink silk dress printed in a grey and white design with a moulded waistline and full flare skirt. She wore a grey straw hat trimmed with a pink rose. Her shoes and handbag were both gunmetal grey.

At a noon reception, the Princess met more than 120 newsmen at a press conference arranged at her own request.

A state banquet is scheduled at Government House tonight.

Freighter Saves Canuck Flier

MARSEILLE (AP) — The French freighter Sahara advised port authorities today that she had rescued a Canadian pilot from the sea Wednesday night in the Gulf of Valencia. She said she is bringing him to this southern French port late tonight.

The vessel veered from her course to pick up the aviator from a rubber life raft after he bailed out.

New RN Rescue Device

The British navy has developed this new device for improving means of rescue by helicopter. The apparatus, shown here during a demonstration, is a scoop net capable of lifting a person out of the sea as the 'coper hovers overhead at a "walking pace."

HUTCHISON FROM WASHINGTON

Eisenhower Escapes From Political Mess

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WASHINGTON—During the last year the political prospects, the power and the mind of President Eisenhower have been completely changed by one of the great success stories of our times. Only his character has not changed and that remains as the basis of his unique place in American life.

A year ago, when this reporter was last in Washington, the President faced an agonizing dilemma and, it almost seemed, a disastrous failure as a national and international leader.

In international affairs he had not yet escaped the innocent enchantment of a foreign policy certain to fail and already causing grave strains in the free world alliance — the policy, in brief, of "liberating" Communist satellities, rolling back the Iron Curtain, "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek and generally repealing the "containment" policy of the Truman government.

Hutchison

If he had privately realized that the election cries of 1952 were irrelevant and dangerous, but had yet to abandon them, he found himself suddenly dragged into a totally unforseen French defeat in Indo-China. The world of a year ago seemed to be rolling inexorably toward a great Asiatic war, perhaps a world war.

In domestic affairs the president had lurched by a long series of blunders and by the worst kind of professional advice into the nauseous McCarthy mess.

He did not dare to repudiate a man who obviously was striking mainly at American communists but at the American presidency. Tight-lipped and apparently helpless, he watched the Republican Party use McCarthy as its leading platform personality, even as its Lincoln birthday orator, with a speech called "Twenty Years of (Democratic) Treason." McCarthy, in fact, was taking the Republican Party away from its leader.

EXCLUSIVE to the TIMES

It was true to say a year ago that, at the current momentum, the tide in the affairs of the president was carrying him inexorably toward shallows and miseries which he could never hope to escape.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (AP) —Nottingham County defeated Sheffield Wednesday 1-0 today in a replay of their fourth-round match of the Football Association Cup competition.

PMs Talk Convertibility

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth prime ministers turned today from international affairs to a review of economic and trade matters as their conference swung into its fourth day.

Prime Minister St. Laurent briefly reviewed Canada's position. The chief speakers were R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, and Peter Thorneycroft, president of the board of trade.

Informants said Butler's report would deal with the prospect of liberalizing trade. They expected him to examine the problem of making the pound sterling convertible into other currencies without setting any timetable.

Communists Demand Chiang Envoy Ousted

LONDON (UP)—Red China refused today to send a representative to a United Nations security council debate on a New Zealand plan for a Formosan cease-fire.

It warned that "all decisions" taken by the council without a Red China representative present "would be illegal and null and void."

The Communist reply to UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold's invitation to attend the debate was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

It said Communist China "fully supports" the Soviet Union's proposal branding the United States an aggressor against China but is "firmly opposed" to the New Zealand proposal.

The reply said that Red China could send a representative to discuss the Russian proposal alone but would do so only when the Nationalist Chinese delegate on the UN security council has been "driven out."

Calls for Complete U.S. Withdrawal

The soviet proposal also would demand withdrawal of all American and Chinese nationalist forces from Formosa and other Nationalist-held off-shore islands. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and other non-Communist spokesmen have described the Soviet resolution as a demand for "complete surrender."

The reply said that Red China is of the "firm opinion that the United Nations security council should condemn the United States for its acts of aggression against China and call upon the United States to stop immediately its aggressions against China and intervention in China's internal affairs and to withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan (Formosa) and the Taiwan Straits."

The message said that "the United States aggression against China's territory of Taiwan has all along been the source of tension in the Far East."

It attacked the New Zealand proposal which called for con-

Witness in Trial Of Reds Subpoenaed

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed ex-Communist Harvey Matusow—apparently to explain his repudiation of testimony he gave as a prosecution witness at the trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders on conspiracy charges.

Nehru Spotlights New Peace Drive

(Compiled from UP Dispatches)

The United States today contacted India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru for details of his "side-street" efforts to find a way—outside the United Nations—to end the Formosan shooting.

U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich talked for 30 minutes with the Indian prime minister at the "Millionaires Row" residence where two days ago Nehru conferred with Red China's charge d'affaires in Britain.

High Indians said the two discussed the Formosan crisis. Non-committal U.S. sources insisted the meeting was "only a courtesy call."

But the conviction was growing in United Nations at New York that the best hope for a Formosan settlement now rests with Nehru's plan for "Geneva-type" conference of principals.

And there was no doubt the United States was vitally interested in Nehru's moves.

Washington diplomats are convinced that Russia is seriously worried by the dangers of war erupting in the Far East. They believe that the Soviets might be willing to enter into some stop-gap formula — short of a formal cease-fire—to ease the tension in the Formosan Strait and permit tempers to cool.

These factors might create a favorable atmosphere for Nehru's mediation efforts.

Reds Mass in Defiance of U.S. 7th Fleet

The emphasis was on speed, for the Communists were reported to have massed "many" ships near Yikiangshan Island in apparent defiance of the U.S. 7th Fleet which is committed to cover the Nationalist evacuation of the Tachens, barely eight miles away.

Nationalist sources said Chiang planes flew through increasingly heavy anti-aircraft fire to attack the Red ships. Two Communist ships were reported destroyed.

There were increasing signs the evacuation of Tachen was imminent.

Informed sources in Taipei said the United States and Nationalist China had reached agreement on evacuation of the Tachens under cover of the U.S. 7th Fleet and that an announcement could be expected within 48 hours.

Tax-Lost Home Blamed on Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner was accused here today of delaying action which would have saved a Westview, B.C. woman from losing her $3,000 home in a tax sale.

Graham Ladner, representing Mrs. Mary Booth, said the attorney-general had a month in which to take action but he moved a day too late.

Mr. Ladner said he had made application Aug. 18 to Mr. Bonner for a fiat to sue the provincial government. The period in which a fiat could be approved expired Sept. 16, 1954.

"He had it for a month," Mr. Ladner said. "Then, on Sept. 17 —one day too late—he brought the matter before the Lieutenant-Governor and said no action could be taken because the time limit had expired.

"This seems to me to be something worse than a plain omission on his part."

Mrs. Booth had spent more than $1,600 renovating her home without knowing it had been sold to a Powell River real estate operator for $30.60 after she had failed to pay a $16.83 school tax.
